1968 Wigwam

Warren Central High School
Indianapolis, Indiana Volume 28

Through these doors lies—a pathway toward tomorrow . . . and there lies hope . . . expectation . . . anticipation.

What represents the past is gone . . . what is now is going . . . but this is something new . . . This is Education. A new outlook . . . a new building . . . This is a new Design For Tomorrow.

Design For Tomorrow . . .

Amidst a new design they arrive ready to face a changing world. A world which will soon take on a new personality. This personality will include the characteristics necessary to build a foundation which stands tall and proud reflecting back upon a year of dreams and expectation.

Each arrives filled with some inner hope to reach a long set goal. A part of this goal becomes reality with the anxiety and anticipation of becoming a Warrenite.

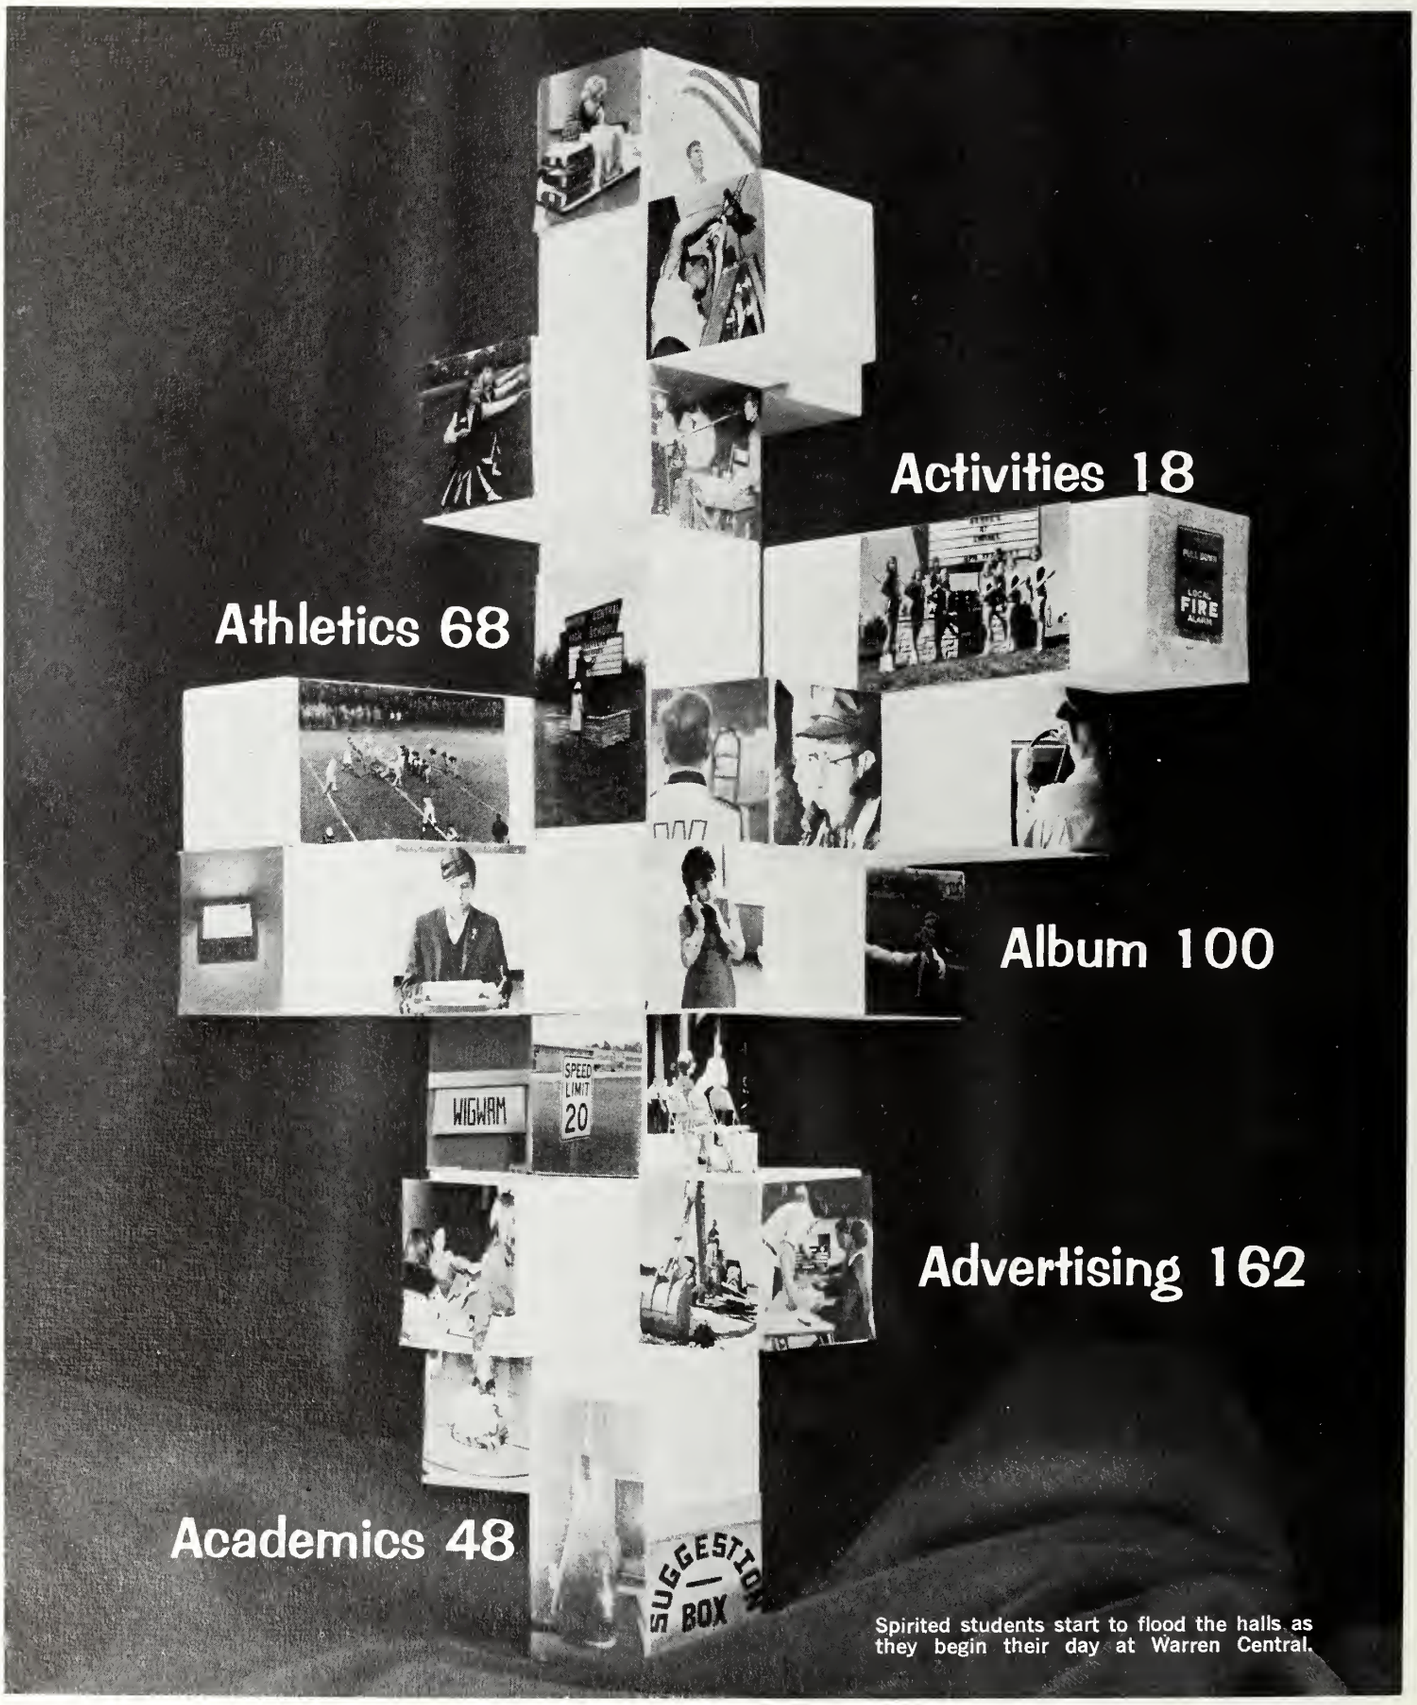
From this first impression we, as Warrenites, gain the courage to emerge as individuals. We are eager to learn, to accept, to challenge.

However, our learning does not stop in the classroom. Our acceptance is due to a previous knowledge as our challenges show our eagerness to question what we do not believe.

For what is life but a design. We plan for junior high, high school, and college. We design our years at Warren to fit our future. We strive to meet the opportunities we find here. Our education is the beginning of the design of our lives. Even a day at Warren, although it may seem routine, is centered around a design. Activities prepare us for a world of people. Sports teaches us encouragement and competition. Academics give us challenge and a foundation on which we shall learn to rely. These are the challenges a Warrenite faces in readying himself for the future.

We are a part of 1968, a part of a new design. A design which holds together the past, the present, and the future. From the past we hold a memory, a time to go back to within the depths of our minds and learn. The present is action now. The future is ours to meet opportunity and develop pride within ourselves—a time to prepare a "Design for Tomorrow."

Participation Enlightens Students In . . .



Spirited students start to flood the halls as they begin their day at Warren Central.

A new addition to the Students Council's plan for a greater Warren is the establishment of a Peace-Corps School-to-School Program.

The Student Council officers, and the Peace Corps student committee worked successfully in planning with the student body's help.

Tomorrow always seems a long way off to many. To these people the primary concern is today and only today. But during the 1968 school year Warren Central accomplished much to aid them in the future. Not only was a three and a half million dollar building project started but many innovations were undertaken which will greatly affect Warren in years to come.

However, the greatest project attempted during the entire year was the establishment of a Peace-Corps School-to-School Program. The Student Council was faced with the problem of raising a sum of $1,000 in one year in order to finance a school in an underprivileged country.

Innovations Stir Warren Imaginations

From the bricks and mortar come a living organism. Living organisms must have several characteristics. One is livelihood and another is growth. Just as a living organism expands and grows, so does Warren. Warrens' livelihood is its student body, its growing sector will be the new addition which is expected by Spring of 1970.

This design for tomorrow was set aside in 1961, when the school was opened. The new addition will be an enhancement to the rest of the school building. It will house a new material instruction center, lecture halls, and serve as a science and mathematics wing with all the facilities necessary for proper instruction.

Also to be added to the building in a location near the gym, will be a swimming pool to serve as another means of physical training for the young Warrenite. Yes, the dream will become true. In Spring of 1970, Warrens' dream will become a reality.

Right: Although the construction of the new building did not begin until mid-winter, our dreams of a greater Warren future were already in mind. Here various students participate in a simulated classroom situation.

Community Scenes Change

Below: The network of exchanges is one example of new dimensions in our community.

And The Beat Goes On . . .

Yes, the beat goes on. Each of the 1,750 Warrenites acknowledges that fact. However, many are not affected by the changes that go on around us every day.

In the field of transportation, for example, the Interstate highway system has instilled change in cross-country travel. Change in landscape has been promoted by the network of these highways spanning the community.

For a few, this alteration of landscape has been spoken of with contempt. Many people did not realize that our lives may be bettered by the highway. Our community will increase in size and new students will be brought to Warren. Isn't this progress?

Great expansion in scientific fields is exemplified at a national level, as well as localized. America's moon program, and the men and machinery associated with it are indirectly responsible in that as they progress, we progress.

Political sentiments were aroused at Warren over up-coming election for mayor of Indianapolis. Although Warren township is not actually affected by the election, students associated with extra-curricular activities of a political nature learn about the local government and the changes that take place through participation.

Changes taking place today will benefit us tomorrow and in the years to come. These changes are not only part of every day life, but a part of ourselves. The growth of our community means growth in our pattern of living.

Long after we leave Warren Central, these changes in transportation, scientific advancement, alteration of landscapes, and governmental administration will continue to add to our community design and social life. They will instill in us goals of perfection as the beat goes on.

As Summer Slips Away, Wily Warriors

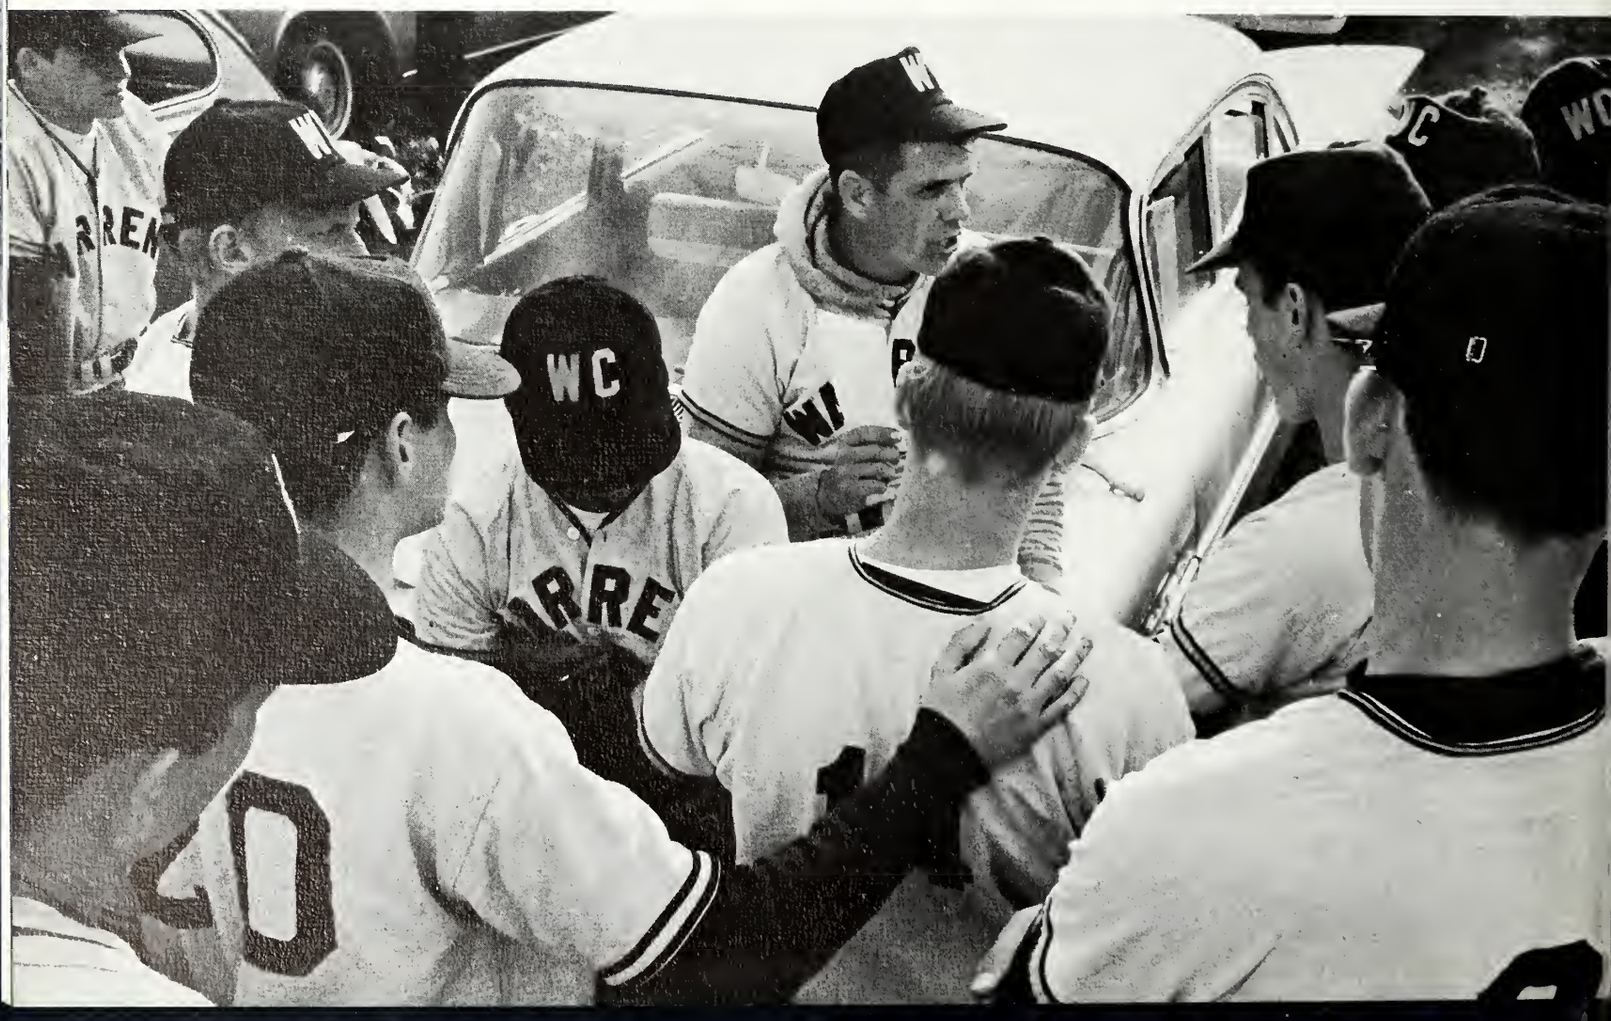
No better summary of summer 1967 could be made than that of "distinction and prestige."

The Warriorettes seemingly filled a trophy case with the rewards of tedious practice and precise performances. Physical strength and total alertness enabled the 1967 baseball team to place second in the county in sectional competition. Meanwhile, the varsity cheerleaders showed unyielding spirit and dedication to receive the Smith-Walbridge Summer Camp "Spirit Stick."

Moral allegiance and duty to country lies in the hands of those who represented Warren at Girl's and Boy's State. And a special note of excellence may be extended to Jane Pauley whose personality and sincere attitude enabled her to represent Indiana as Secretary of State in Washington, D. C.

It can surely be said that this summer has bestowed honor and prestige on the youth who are planning the design for tomorrow.

Below: As the baseball team listened to Coach Foreman they did not know they were to capture the title of second in the county.



Win Awards

Jane Pauley was recognized as Governor at Girl's State and continued to become U.S. Secretary of State, representing Indiana in Washington, D.C.

Warren Activities Today Mold Tomorrow

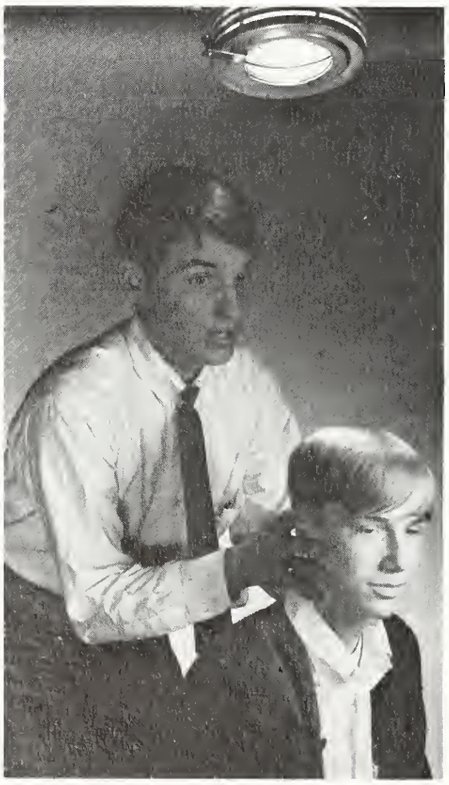
Warren Central students spontaneously breathed a sigh of relief for the break in routine as they evacuate the building during one of the first firedrills of the 1967-1968 year.

Character . . . Warrenites develop it through the many phases of school life. Just the simple matter of attending classes has an advantage besides the obvious knowledge gained here. For it is in the classroom we learn to keep pace with a modern world.

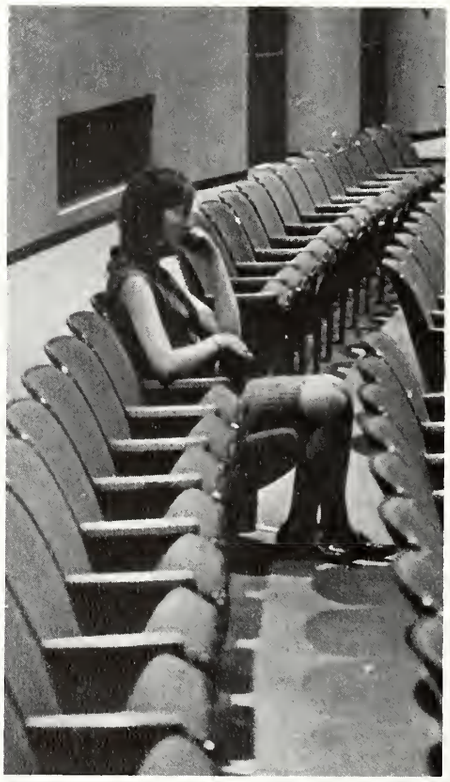
Activities are a must in the molding of character. It is here a youthful mob becomes a well-organized and worthwhile club. The monotony of the classroom is broken and friendship and ambitions are built. Individuals combine ideas and a design takes shape. With convocations we begin to accept the realization that we are nearing a future, a future in which we shall be the leaders. And, so we stop for a moment to reflect back upon our presence at Warren.

We begin to see things in a new light and our education becomes more than just teachers. It becomes a plan which shall grow, and take shape, throughout our future life.

This is "our" time, the carefree and happy days we remember of our youth. The time we built within ourselves a "Design for Tomorrow."



"Picture perfect?" Because of the need for I. D. cards, all students had their picture taken this year in September.



Once in a while it seems a must for all students to regain their senses during the school day. For a moment activity stops.

Adding variety to daily routine, convocation speakers enlighten students throughout the year and broaden their ideals.

To "kick-off" the sale of the 1968 Wigwam, the Wigwam staff with the help of the beginning journalism classes presented the annual skit. Pictured are members of the entire cast in full costume in a take-off on a cartoon program.

Design is the key for Warren in all areas this year. Each way we turn something new is underway. Ideas are growing and becoming more than ideas. They are part of a new plan.

Warrenites are also a part of this plan. We learn the meaning of cooperation and "something new" with the use of ID cards at Warren. When that unexpected fire drill sounds through the halls we are ready, this is the time we stand not as individuals, but as one.

As the noise gets louder and a design becomes real, we spin in a cycle of hope, anticipation, and expectation. And, then sometimes we pause to sit in an empty auditorium and a stillness takes hold. We think of the past and try to visualize the future. A design will finish and move on as we will move on from Sophomores to Seniors and into a bustling world. A world differently designed from our own here at Warren. A world pressing us to complete our designs.

Enthusiasm and the support of the fans are essential elements to any winning team. At Warren, a pep session is the traditional method used to generate contagious excitement of a decisive victory. All of the students eagerly take part in displaying school spirit.

Senior Goodbyes Ring Throughout Halls

Our first reaction on becoming Warrenites was one of youthful exuberance. Wasn't this what we had anticipated for so many years? Pandemonium broke out in the lunchroom as we held impromptu pep sessions. Spirit surged as we planned our Homecoming floats, each person trying to come up with a novel idea. Loyalty increased as the basketball season got underway and we all hoped it would be successful.

Yes, we knew how to have fun, but many of us found ourselves in a state of bewilderment as the year whirled onward. We have been called the beginning of the new generation—a generation that's aware of the world around us and hopeful that someday it will be poverty free and peaceful.

This year at Warren helped prepare us a little more for our future responsibility. We found ourselves faced with m i d t e r m and final exams. Pressure was constant, but in the end, it became a small price to pay for the experience gained.

ACTIVITIES

From the spirited chants of the Pep Block to the whisper of a prayer in Hi-C, a world of colorful. . . ACTIVITIES . . . emerges through the halls of Warren Central. It is here we find. . . Independence. . . Imagination. . . Identity. . . A time to lose individuality and become a part of the group, and yet find a part of a. . . Design for Tomorrow.

Enthusiasm

Each and every Warrior has felt a reassurance of school spirit when attending football and basketball games. It would not be boastful to hold the Pep Block responsible for this enthusiasm and support. Certainly, the student body possesses a great deal of emotion, but this emotion is only a carry-over from the sincerity and school spirit which truly dominate in the Pep Block.

As a symbol of athletic achievement the Lettermen's Club signifies our Warrior's participation in the athletic program. Furthermore, Lettermen's Club permits an individual to associate with those interested in the same area—athletics.

Carrying on a spirit-building tradition this year was Warren's own, Mike Lee. Altered this year to enthuse and entertain Warren's fans, Mike Lee portrayed the "Mighty Warrior" of Warren. A reserve cheerleader assisted Mike in his pre-game war dance.

Senior Mike Lee portrayed the "Mighty Warrior" at all of Warren's home basketball games.

Wigwam Staff Has A Successful Year

Ronnie Carnes and Pat Barton, associate editors; Janice Strange, business manager; and Linda Wiedmann get ideas for this year's Wigwam from a variety of yearbooks created by other schools.

Plans for the 1968 Wigwam were being materialized long before the Journalism department had delivered the yearbook. During the following summer Editor-in-Chief Linda Wiedmann and Associate Editor Pat Barton attended Indiana University High School Journalism Institute. Associate Editor Ronnie Carnes attended Ball State Journalism Institute. The editors shared their knowledge with the other staff members on their return in hope of a successful year.

The creative ability of the staff was established in the production of the annual Wigwam skit, kicking off the annual sales campaign.

As the year progressed Wigwamers found the meaning of team work as deadlines became easier to meet when everyone helped.

Everyone found the added responsibility and pressure almost too much but the result was the 1968 Wigwam, larger, better, and more colorful than ever before.

Old Routine Breaks—Owl Goes Weekly

Always seeking methods to improve the OWL, Editor-in-Chief Brian Horton and Managing Editor Pat Campbell attended journalism workshops at Ball State University and Indiana University last summer. Use of this knowledge, plus hard work and imagination aided the Owl in an attempt to meet last year's record of National First Place Rating from Quill and Scroll, an "A" rating from the National Newspaper Service, and a first class rating from the National Scholastic Press Association. In addition, the Owl was a county winner in the Columbia Scholastic Press Association competition.

Owl staffers coped with twice the usual problems this year, as the Owl went from a bi-weekly to a weekly newspaper.

In addition to preparing and writing the paper every week, the staff under Joyce Dolick's management, keeps Indianapolis informed of Warren's activities by sending new items and feature stories to various local papers.

The Warren Owl continues to make its goal the motto printed on its banner, "Wisdom, Courage, Honor, Service."

Reporters Debbie Majerick, Cathy Burke, Roberta Rosebaum, and Wendy Wiseman compare clippings of their articles printed in daily and weekly papers.

Thespians, an international dramatics honorary society for those high school students deserving of recognition, initiates its members after they have accumulated one-hundred hours of service or have earned ten points for dramatical service or experience. Indirectly the society fulfills the purpose of a dramatics council for Warren dramatic activities.

Warren Central's Honor Society fulfilled its duty as a general organization for those who have achieved high scholastic notation. The society sponsored the Annual Spaghetti Supper given before the Student-Faculty basketball game. Presentation of two one-hundred dollar scholarships to two deserving students completed its activities.

Those students maintaining an 88% average in all subjects and interested in math were eligible to be members of Mu Alpha Theta, the honorary math organization at Warren.

The Dorothy C. Teal Chapter of Quill and Scroll, the International Society for high school journalists, co-sponsored the fourth annual Marion County Press Day in February and sold mums at homecoming.

Councils Involve Student Representation

At the beginning of each year a homeroom representative is elected to represent and bring to the homeroom certain matters dealt with in Student Council. Student Council Officers are elected by the classes prior to the year which they will take office. Among the Council's projects are the Student Handbook, sock hops, and supervision of queen elections. This year, the council raised funds to build a school in a foreign, underdeveloped area.

The Junior Council is primarily concerned with projects, situations, and necessities of the Junior Class. Those projects most prominent were the ordering of class rings, the Turnabout Dance, and the Junior Prom.

The Senior Council, this year, planned many activities, solved the many responsibilities handed to them leading to graduation, and made arrangements for the senior prom. The council secured means by which seniors could order cards and announcements, rent caps and gowns, and graduate in a memorable ceremony on June 3.

SENIOR COUNCIL—FIRST ROW: Ronnie Carnes, Sharon Barr, Pat Elkins, Mary Kay Keith, Carol Morrow, Marlene Wallace, Debbie Seigfried, Jackie Gasaway. Both Debate, Speech Rate Top NFL National Honors

Warren Central's chapter of the National Forensic League (NFL) was unsurpassed in achievement during its 1967-68 season. This achievement was displayed several times throughout the year by the winning of contest after contest. The most apparent display of this achievement was cited when Warren obtained the highest rating in the nation for obtaining the most degrees under the NFL system. Coaches Harry Wilfong and Nick Sanders viewed this commendation as "a foremost accomplishment."

It was no wonder that the speech and debate teams associated with NFL were able to cultivate such a success story. In many respects this was only the result of the apparent talent and superior ability concentrated in each class—sophomore, junior, and senior.

It is for this reason that there is little uncertainty as to the security of the title "first in the nation" in the future. Many times throughout the season, Warren's sophomore class established positive excellence in competition. No less a sign of speech ability, though, was the unblemished record of the "first team." Much of the substance of the speech and debate teams lay in the hands of the seniors. However, a fine group of sophomores and juniors aided the team over many rough spots.

Last, but certainly not least, was another indication of superior achievement—that is the title of "state champs," which was acquired by the 1967 teams.

Conclusively, it may be said that the speech and debate teams most successfully put their mark in the history of Warren Central High School.

Many Clubs

At Warren, a variety of clubs and organizations allow individuals to develop their different interests. Prime examples of the many clubs offered are Library Club, Dramatics Club, Future Nurses Club, and Future Homemakers Association.

Allowing those interested to study and explore further knowledge of library science is the objective of the Library Club.

Individuals who are talented or simply have an interest in theatrics find that Dramatics Club satisfies their thirst for acting or behind-the-scene stage crews and engineering.

A relatively new organization at Warren, the Future Nurses Club, has as its membership those who are contemplating medicine as a future profession or those who are interested in medicine.

Very useful in later life and even possibly related to a profession, the Future Homemakers Association creates enthusiasm in the field of Home Economics.

LIBRARY CLUB OFFICERS—SEATED: President, Carolyn Morgan; vice-president, Penny Demaree. STANDING: Program chairman, Cindy Whisman; treasurer, JoAnne Guffy; program chairman, Bonnie Neibert; secretary, Grace Muehl.

Attract The Interest Of Warren People

The Drama Club, strives to teach its members the finer points of acting. Officers are: FIRST ROW: treasurer, Dawn Bonisa; president, Mary Kay Keith; secretary, Barbie Amos. SECOND ROW: program chairmen, Joyce Dolick and Sheri Toole.

Extra Activities Allow Special Pleasure

BUSINESS CLUB—The officers of the Business Club Vicki Brothers, treasurer; Kathy Head, president; and Pam McGuire, secretary promote the interest of the organization.

Those students interested in the history of the United States turned their attention towards the History Club.

Because of the fact that Business is possibly the largest occupational category in the United States the members of the Business Club found themselves confronted with unlimited opportunity.

The Science Club gave many students the opportunity to become familiar with the many recent scientific advances.

Exploratory Teaching (a course at Warren) offers first hand responsibility of teaching. Future Teachers of America offers extra-curricular activities of this type.

Alpha Hi-Y, a service club, has as a main project collection of money for March of Dimes.

Hi-C, also a service organization, is affiliated with the religious and spiritual life of students at Warren. It is for this reason the members of Hi-C take great pride in presenting morning devotions. Being the oldest organization HiC has also attained the reputation of having the most members.

Club's Year

Warrenettes Club, the Warren Central girls' service club, is composed of senior, junior, and sophomore girls. This year, for the first time, the three classes were combined in one large club, rather than three smaller clubs as was done in previous years. Once again, the club had as one of its annual projects, the Mother-Daughter Valentine Tea.

They also sponsored the Christmas Dance, "Frosted Fantasy," which was held in the school foyer.

The Radio Club consisted of interested students, wishing to learn about the operation of "ham" radio. With the hopes of operating their own station in the future, they proceded to learn by visiting radio-related installations in the area.

Responsible for the annual car safety check was the Drivers' Club. They strived to teach the importance of highway safety to all drivers.

Learning strategy in the game of chess, the Chess Club proceeded to walk off with many awards during the year. It provided its members with opportunity to excel in the game.

Participation

Noting Warren's philosophy of a well-rounded curriculum, reaching into the interests of every student, one finds that foreign language plays an important role. Consistently, foreign language challenges pupils at Warren and many times develops in a student an objective concern for the differences that do exist in foreign lands.

Fortunately, this is where language clubs may be recognized as valuable tools in discovering, through social atmosphere, the heritage and tradition of certain outstanding foreign countries or areas.

Through extra effort on behalf of sponsors and students, distinguishable pride is shown every year as each language club sings in an organized choir at the Annual Foreign Language Banquet. The traditional Language Banquet encourages participation and induces c o n c e r n for a foreign language.

Not uncommon, usually several times a year, are the unforgettable language club parties—the breaking of the pinata, the old German Beer Songs, and the Latin Slave Sale and Chariot Race.

Through Language Clubs, students have found an enjoyable and effective approach to increasing their knowledge.

Notes Vary From Jazz To Classic

There are many organizations at Warren that enable students to display their talents.

The Big Chief's Stage Band presents the instrumental sound of the traditional swing band. It provides its members with an actual chance to perform with an organized and highly precise group.

Nearly the opposite, the String Ensemble creates a more pleasant or classical sound. It is its purpose to accept the challenge of the most professional works of the music world and develop an outstanding result.

Rounding out a complete curriculum, the Windsors and Girl's Glee Club reach a medium between swing and classical. These groups identify themselves with the progressive sound in vocal music.

SECOND ROW: Lora Dallas, Cindy Stucky, Shirley Williams, Eloine Raab, Carla Cassaday, Jan Gorton, Karen Dailey, Chris Woempner, Linda Collins.

Combinations

The Madrigals, recognized as being the most elite of vocalists, had nine girls and nine boys. Madrigal performers carried on many activities throughout the year. Those most prominent were the Tudor Dinner, the Christmas Concert, the Clowes Hall Presentation, and the recording, along with the Trebletones, and Warrenaires of their first long-play album of Christmas music.

In great demand, this year, was the Trebletones, an all girl's vocal organization, most deservedly associated with pleasant sounds and undoubtable talent. Among their appearances were the Christmas Vocal Concert and extensive entertainment presentations to the public.

Exceptional, without a doubt was this year's Windsors. Because of their positive achievement and sincere desire the Windsors along with the Warrenaires were permitted to appear on television before thousands of people during Christmas vacation where they shared in song the season's spirit.

At Concerts

As in any extra-curricular activity at Warren, one must have the interest to participate. Interest, combined with devoted talent, equals the best orchestra Warren has ever had.

Many fail to realize that our orchestra is ours, just as much as "our team" is. Consisting of student leaders, athletes, and high scholastic students, the orchestra is a colorful sample of the entire student body. Its performances at concerts, and convocations provided the instrumental touch for this year's musical "South Pacific."

Entering the field of professional music, is a goal of more than half of this year's orchestra members. Some perhaps, will be eligible to play with the Indianapolis Symphony Orchestra, as graduates in the past years have done.

A performance by the Indianapolis Symphony Orchestra in February proved to be a highly entertaining experience for the student body. However, for orchestra members it was enlightening as well as educational.

Very seldom is there enough time to loaf when trying to carry on the first class tradition associated with the WCHS Concert Orchestra. Here its members indulge in the practice, which is so vital to this tradition.

With Music

Flashing uniforms, varying patterns of formation, twirling with fire, and the use of new pop tunes were all features of this year's concert band and majorettes.

The Marching Warriors performed during all half-time shows for both football and basketball home games.

The majorettes created special routines for Christmas by portraying mechanical dolls. Other numbers performed throughout the year were "Georgy Girl" and "Spanish Flea."

Visibly, Concert Band achievements can be reviewed by the many medals worn by band members for their participation in state contests.

During the year, the band is given a chance to exhibit these talents through a series of concerts.

With the end of football season, attention was turned to the Pops concert, "All That Jazz." Next, followed the winter concert, "Two For The Show." This was a combination of concert bands from both Warren and Lawrence Central. The finale of the band's season was "Spring Winds" in April.

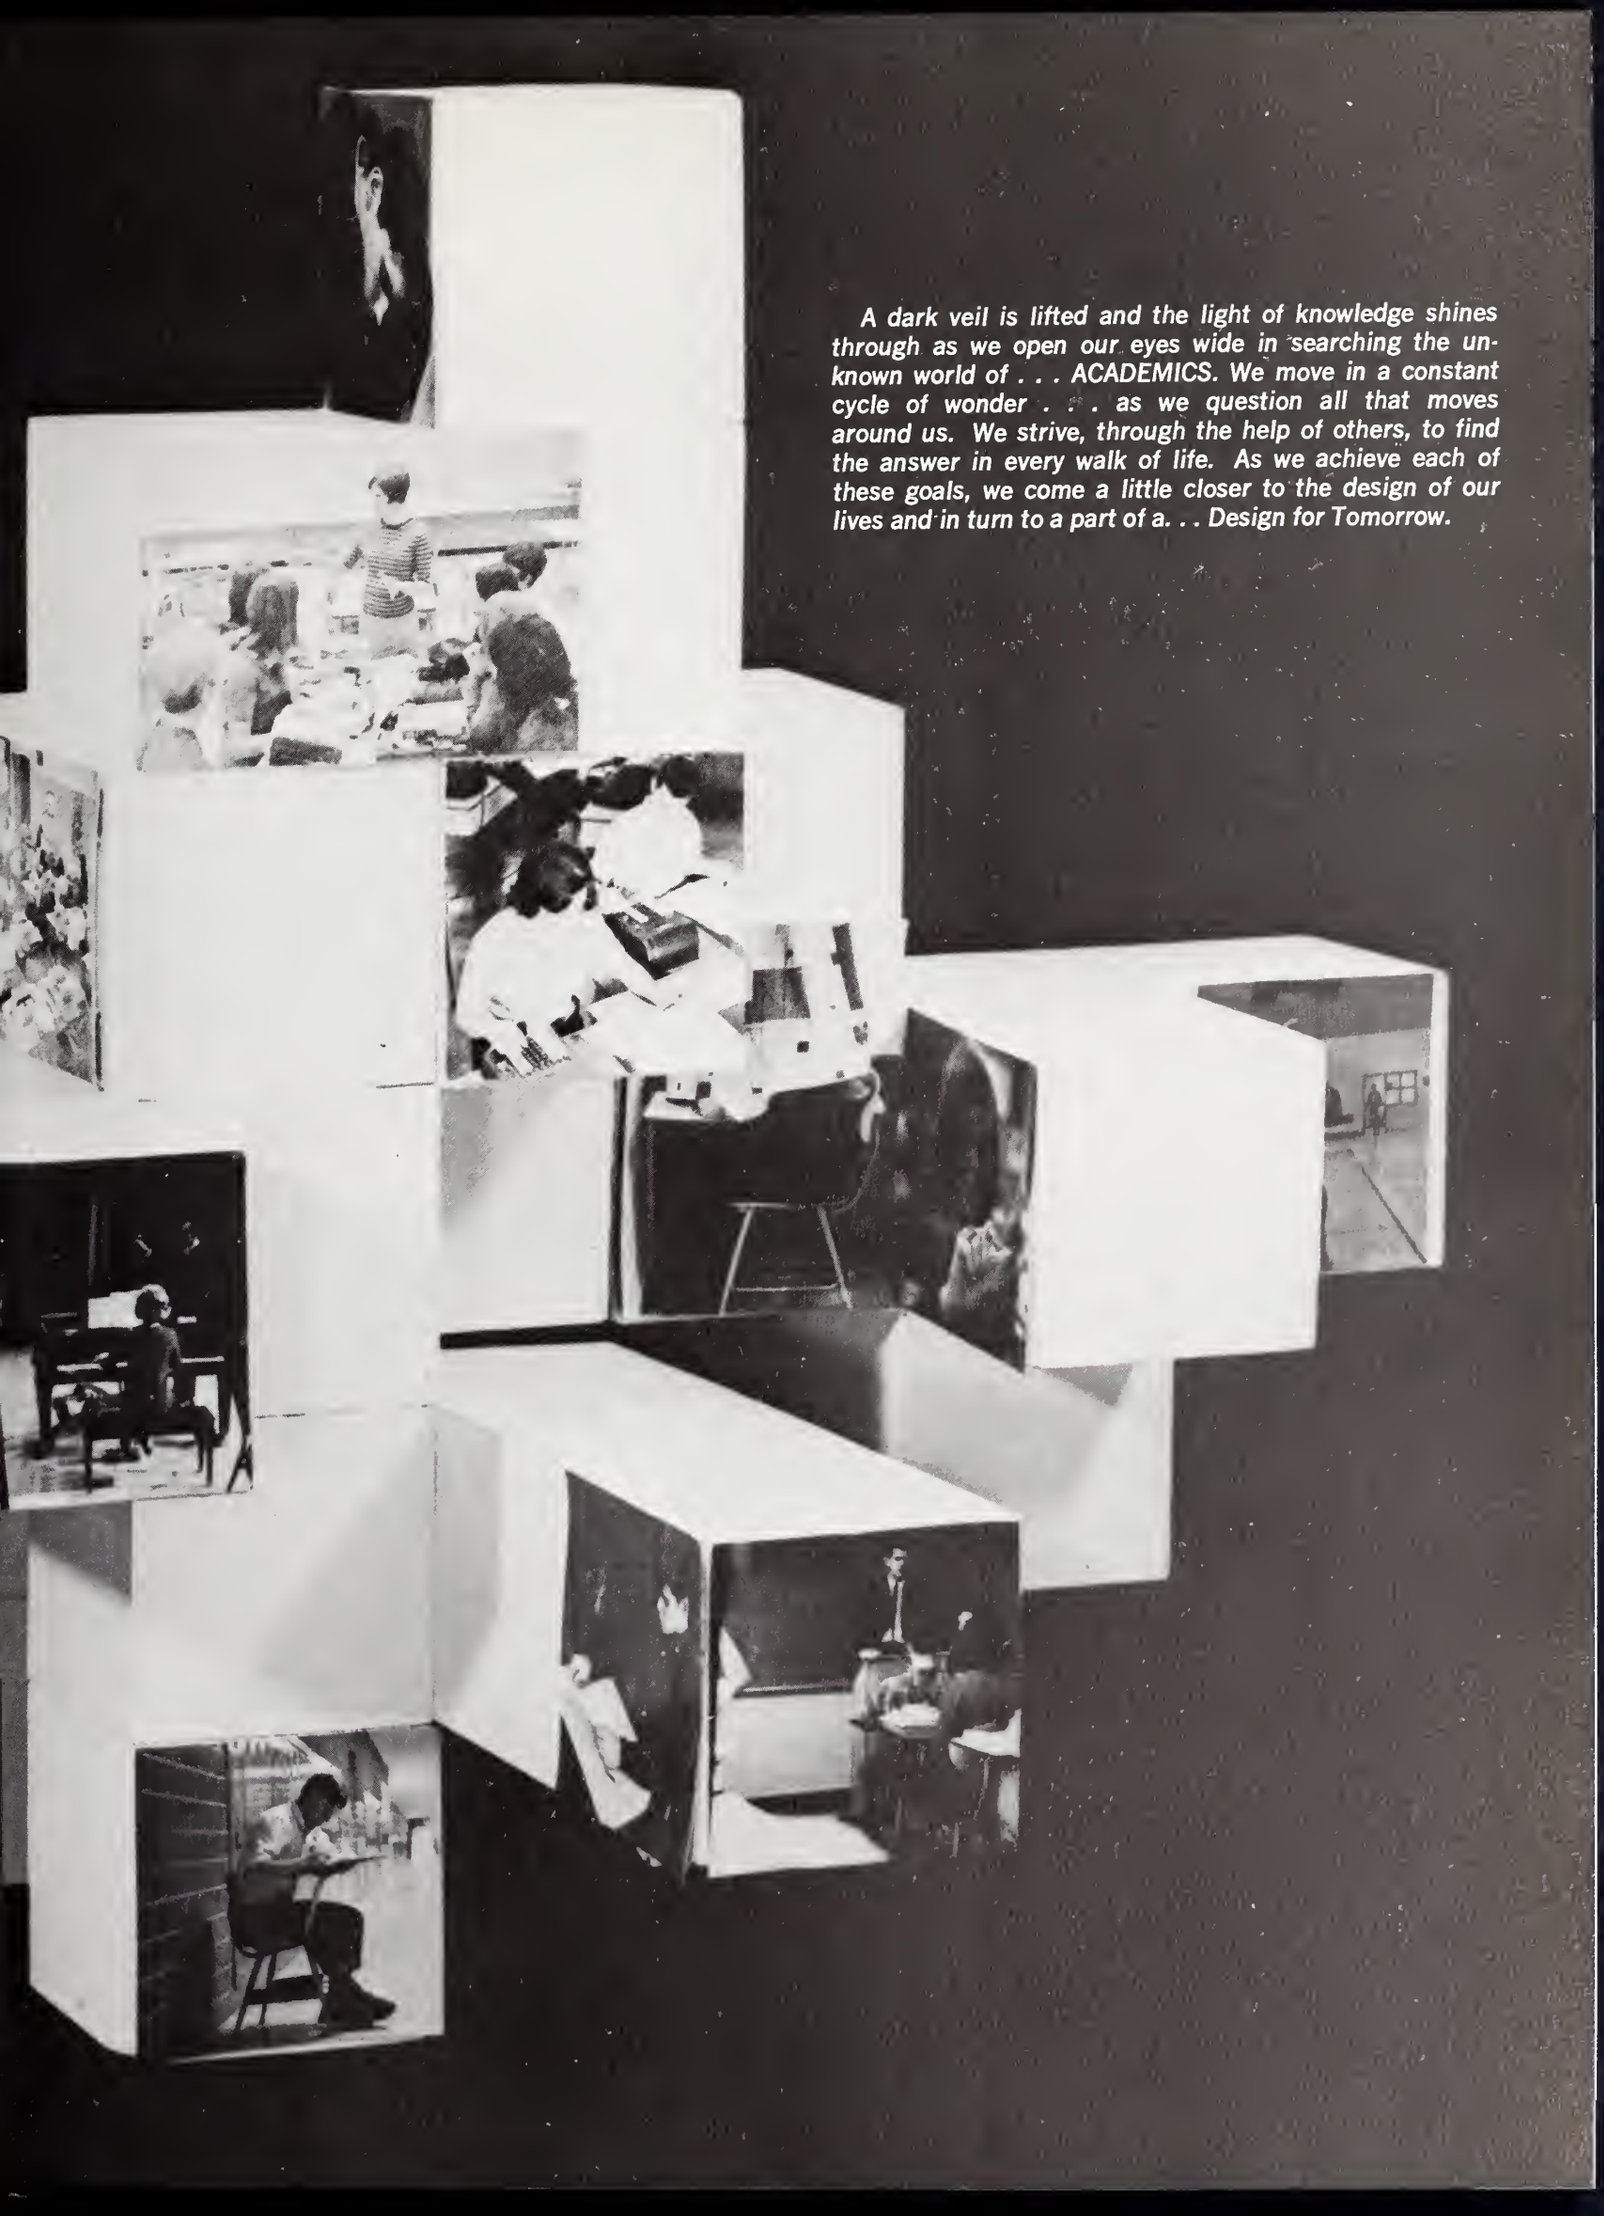
ACADEMICS



A dark veil is lifted and the light of knowledge shines through as we open our eyes wide in searching the unknown world of . . . ACADEMICS. We move in a constant cycle of wonder . . . as we question all that moves around us. We strive, through the help of others, to find the answer in every walk of life. As we achieve each of these goals, we come a little closer to the design of our lives and in turn to a part of a. . . Design for Tomorrow.

Guaranteed

In a communication age such as ours is today, mastering the English language is essential. We, as an English speaking nation, should take pride in being among the leaders of this language.

Warren is meeting the requirements for building masters of the language. In Speech Arts, students learn communications through debating, extemporaneous speaking, and radio announcing. With the announcement of a radio station at Warren, students will get first hand experience at radio announcing.

English classes provide the students with knowledge of the basic structure of writing. Formal writings, such as term papers and book reports, are among the many projects done in class.

Journalism and Dramatics classes teach us to put forth our ideas on a public level. Staff positions and formal stage productions are the goals set forth by these students.

It is of vital importance that we know and understand "our" language. In a world of modernization such as ours is today, the slightest misinterpretation of a single sentence or even a single word could cause destruction.

Application Improves Foreign Tongues

The German Club members participate in the Spring Language Banquet by raising their voices in unison to native songs from Germany. Every year the club competes for the traditional Language Banquet trophy with the French and Spanish Clubs.

"Ben Hur" (Mike Holmes) gives a wave to the crowd as Doug Golden and Steve Walker pull the chariot.

Communication is probably the most important of mankind's accomplishments. Communication (or the lack of it) has also been the probable cause of every war and man-made catastrophe that has taken place. It is the hope of the Foreign Language Department at Warren that an understanding of the language customs of other peoples will enable Warrenites to contribute to a more human world in the future.

Students entering foreign language courses find many ways in which they can become better acquainted with the people, habits, and language of the country or countries which speak that language.

Understanding of a language is taught in a variety of ways. Laboratory work, records, and tapes are used, as well as films and songs which exemplify the culture of the country.

On a broader scope, the various language clubs promote interest in their respective countries. Each year the Spanish, German, French and Latin clubs participate in an evening of exchanging customs and ideas at the Foreign Language Banquet.

Armed with an understanding of a people other than their own, Warrenites should do well on building a more tolerant world.

Mathematics

Mathematics at Warren prepares young people for tomorrow's difficult world. With the possibilities of home computers, 20 hour work weeks, and large amounts of leisure time combining into the probability of continuous education at home for everyone, a basic background in mathematics is necessary for all. To cope with these coming events, students study binary number systems, symbolic logic, and dimensional analysis, along with the ever-present geometry, algebra, and trigonometry courses.

The work load of many mathematics students is quite heavy, as can be seen in the more advanced Trigonometry, College Algebra, and Calculus courses, but the student has elected to be there, and secretly enjoys the challenge. They have been instilled by Warren's math department with what might be called a "Sense of Wonder."

In the final analysis, mathematics will be necessary to everything any Warrenite will ever do. A mastery of mathematics is essential to every Warren Central student who hopes someday to understand some small part of the universe.

Warrenites Contemplate Space Age

Scientific knowledge is, by its very nature, an ever-expanding area. This expansion is evident at Warren, manifesting itself in the major enlargement of the Science Department. With the completion of the new addition, the science teaching and laboratory facilities will be enhanced with the inclusion of new work areas for the advanced courses in botany and zoology, new lecture rooms and demonstration areas.

Warren students have found it necessary to acquire a background in the sciences to be able to cope with today's technical society. The instructors provide this preparation by offering courses in biology, botany, chemistry, advanced chemistry, zoology, physiology, physics, and physical science. The more advanced courses serve as pre-requisites for those seeking science careers.

Vocations Cultivated By Industrial Arts

Education in all fields is part of the well rounded curriculum at Warren Central. Bob Thomas demonstrates his successfulness in metallurgy as he takes a vocational field into consideration.

To prepare students vocationally for the world of tomorrow is the objective of the Industrial Arts Department. Here through Industrial Arts, the energetic teenager learns complicated techniques and operations necessary for the future.

The Industrial Arts program at Warren offers students a variety of classes to satisfy their varied interests. These courses range from wood shop to electronics. In these various classes the student does everything from construction of furniture to the disassemblement of complicated electronic circuits, such as televisions.

This year for the first time, the print shop, with the use of its facilities, has printed the Warren Owl on a weekly basis. This process of printing is done almost entirely by the boys in the advanced printing classes.

Varied aspects of the industrial arts field include metal-working, automobile mechanics, drafting and electronics.

Industrial Arts at Warren offers training to any student who is willing to learn and to use any knowledge applicably gained. The newly acquired knowledge can be obtained to build a design for tomorrow.

Of Cultures

Art and music continued to be a form of creativity for Warren students. Some Warrenites take it merely as a form of relaxation, while others intensely pursued an art in preparation for a future occupation.

Strains of music coming from the music area, daily reminded us that education is more than books. The hours of concentrated practice put in by the orchestra and choirs usually led to impressive performances.

Art students contributed many displays during the year to lessen the monotony that develops over a period of time as one walks in the halls at the same time day after day. Students are even given a chance to purchase products from the art classes. Between the concerts and art exhibitions, the fine arts department does a commendable job of seasoning school life.

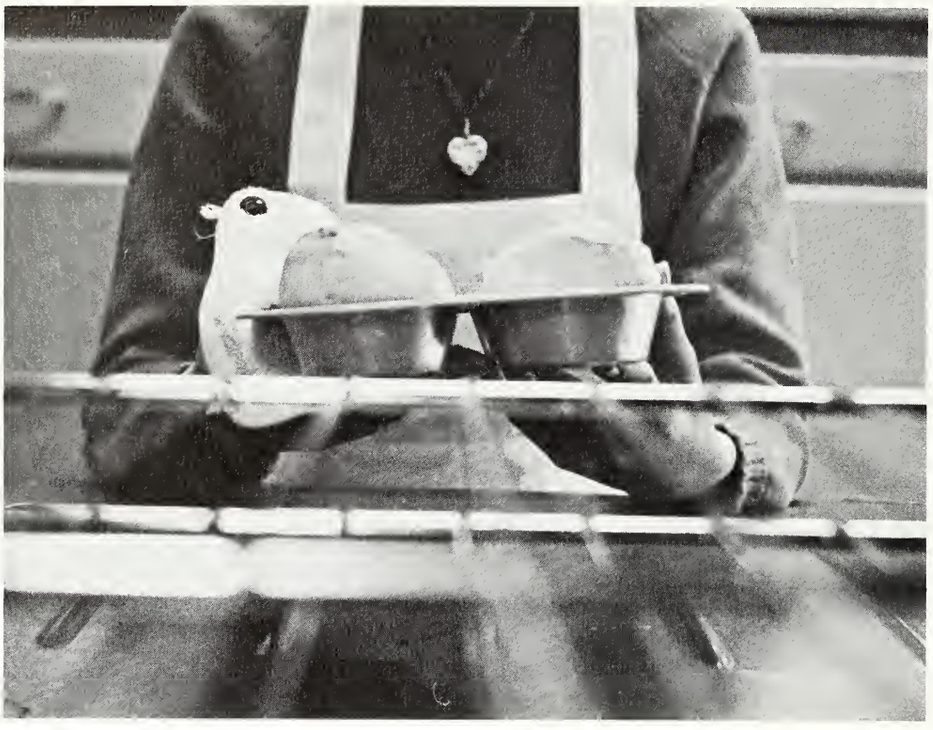
Art appreciation courses are taken advantage of by talented students. John Deeds poses as advanced art students use their portrait skill to put his image on paper.

Students Plan For Postgraduation Goals



Enticing to students wandering in the halls is the frequent aroma of freshly baked goodies. These are being removed from the oven to test and taste.

Today our society is moving at a tremendous rate.

The average adult can hardly keep up with the many problems of home finance and business. Business education in high school plays a vital role in preparing students for the rapidly paced outside world.

For a better understanding of home and ownership, business math fills the need. Banking, budgeting, insurance and saving are among the facets covered.

Complimentary knowledge of the business world can be found in the classrooms of bookkeeping, business law, typing, shorthand, and office practice.

As important as business is homemaking. The Home Economics courses prepare girls to face problems varying from sewing on buttons and mending torn clothes, to preparing well balanced meals.

One more source of satisfaction to the prospective homemaker is learning to complete a sewing project.

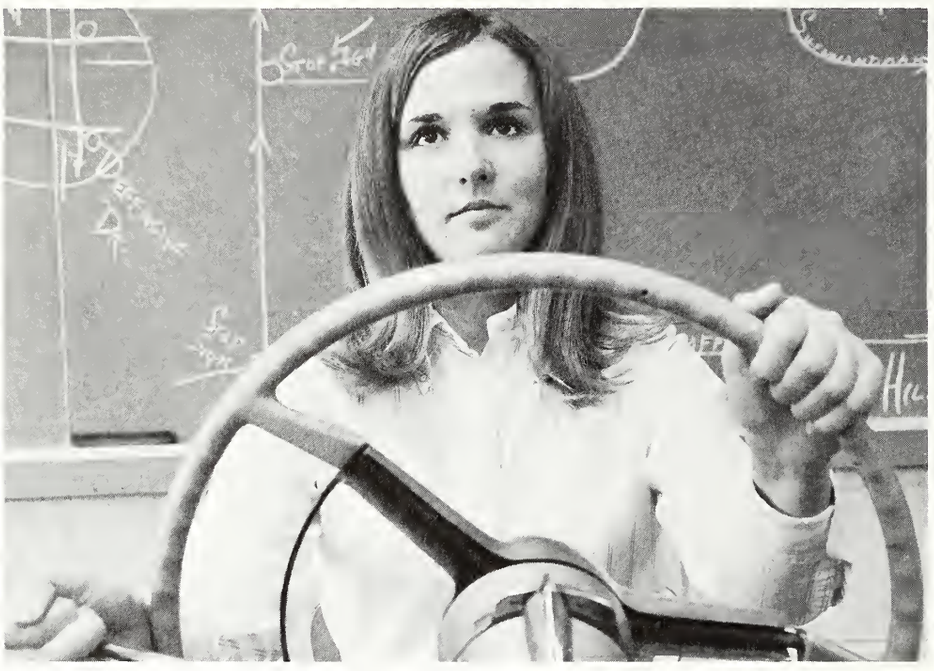
Beginning, college preparatory, and advanced typing students continually find themselves "swinging" to the beat of music, rushing to get that last word in before the end of a five minute timing, or going great lengths to produce a "perfect" letter.

Drivers Ed., Physical Education Produce



Janet Stuckey, 10, displays the look of a confident driver even when using a driving simulator. Below: "Accidents will happen," exclaims Instructor, Mr. Stauffer.

Among the most intriguing classes at Warren, Drivers Education, undeniably heads the list. To the student, Drivers Education, becomes a regular class in irregular surroundings. The student finds himself, to his delight, in a car and behind the wheel of it at that. These Warrenites are planning for tomorrow by acquiring more than enough knowledge to receive their license and handle themselves defensively on the streets.

Another class which offers Warrenites change from the usual classroom scenery is Physical Education. This course gives students a chance to release the tensions accumulated in the school day. Students gain co-ordination through outdoor and indoor sports. Team work and good sportsmanship are among the many traits also shown to the students.

Upon the completion of our new wing, physical education will take a different design. The addition of a swimming pool will offer future Warrenites greater variety.

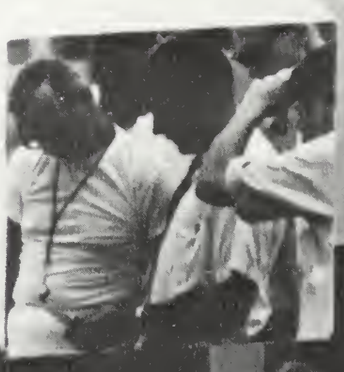
Alert Skills, Coordination

Competition is very much apart of life for boys in Physical Education. Struggling in a tug-of-war game with a tire, the boys receive tire burns and tired muscles.

Hoosier hysteria even strikes girls physical education classes for six weeks a year. Here another exciting game begins with a battle for the opening tipoff.

Straining to excel in athletic competition, Warren Central physical education students play an invigorating game of volley ball tug-of-war, in gym class.

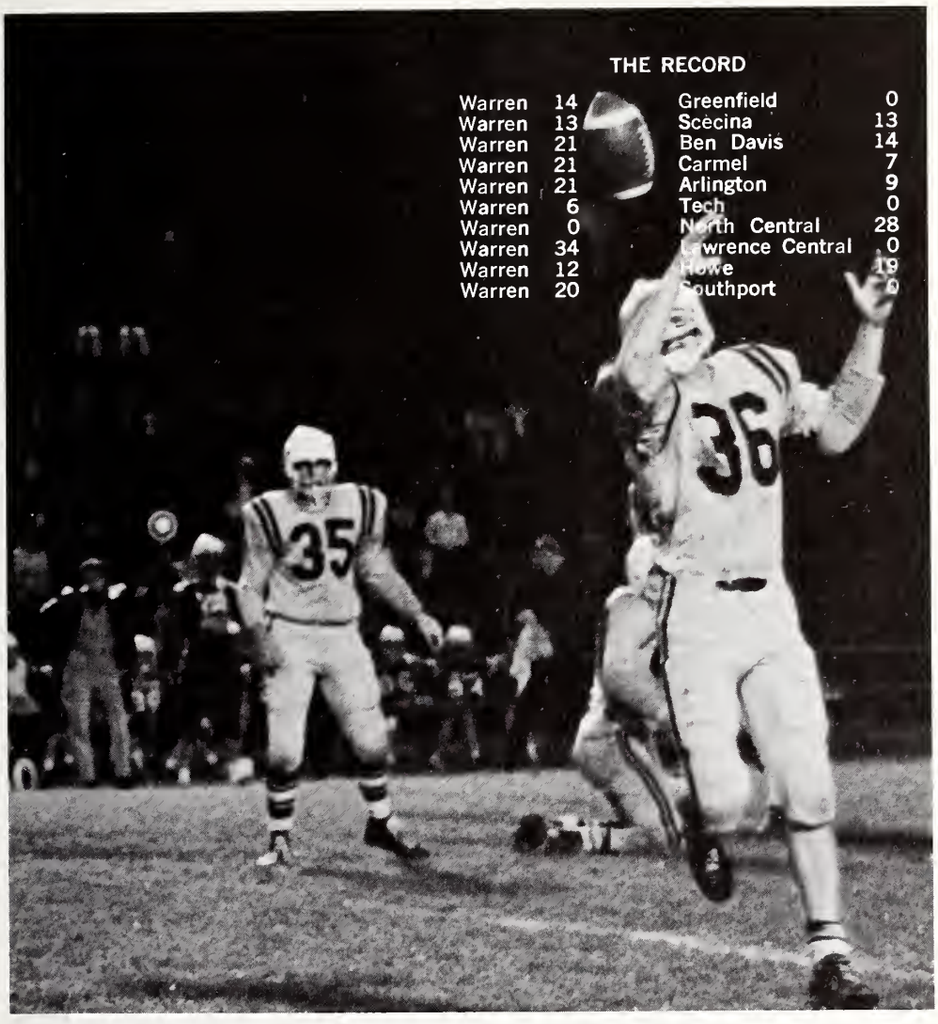
ATHLETICS



From the enthusiastic yells of the cheerleaders to the sudden hush of the crowds as the last seconds tick off the clock . . . ATHLETICS . . . are very much a part of Warren Central. Success in sports takes more than skill, it takes Spirit . . . whether we sign up for a victory, wear a spirit badge, or participate in a pep session, we contribute our part.

Sports play an important role not only as a part of Warren Central, but in building individuals as a part of a . . . Design for Tomorrow.

Gridders Roll To 7-2-1 Season Record



W stands for Warren Central, wins, Warriors and Woodburn, Warren, Wade, Wray, Wainscott, Warren, Whisner and Wessling. Win was the word for the Warrior season as the squad battled to an impressive season record of seven wins, one tie and two losses. This proved to be the best record that the Warren squad has had in several years.

Another of the Warrior's season was started off in combat with the Greenfield Tigers, and, as last year, the Warriors emerged from the battle victorious, this year with a 14-0 triumph. In their second start of the year, the Warriors, remembering last year's humiliating defeat by the Scecina Crusaders, battled to a 13-13 tie.

Riding high on the start of the good season the Warriors traveled to Ben Davis. Junior Terry Woodburn, Warren's terrific backfield sprinter, scored three touchdowns to lead the squad to a 21-14 victory over the Giants. Continuing on the winning streak, Coach Shaw guided the team to three consecutive wins. These victories were over Carmel, 21-7, Arlington, 21-9, and Tech, 6-0.

North Central, the number one team in the county standings and third ranked in the state, was held scoreless by an unrelenting Warrior defense during the entire first half of the game in their encounter with the Warren squad. However, the Panthers offense broke loose during the second half to score twenty-eight points to shut out the Warriors, 28-0.

Mike Warren barks off the signals as backs Tom Wade and Mark Hollinger prepare to move the ball deep into Lawrence territory.

Six Warriors Land Offensive, Defensive

A new addition to Warren Central's homecoming festivities was a parade of floats. The excitement of the floats combined with the tough Warrior team had the school spirit rising to new heights during the game as the squad rolled to a 34-0 victory over the Lawrence Central Bears. Coach Shaw's first string racked up the thirty-four points in the first half. An example of the Warrior's well-balanced team was shown as the second string held the Bears scoreless during the second half.

Howe's Hornets was the only other team which managed to defeat the Warriors during the season. Howe, the team which was tied for the city championship, managed to score twice in the second half to win by a 19-12 margin. The Warriors finished their season on a winning note by defeating the Southport Cardinals 20-0.

The strength of the Warriors was shown when the All-County selections were made. This season the squad managed to place six team members onto this honorary team. Warriors making the All-County squad were seniors, Jim Ruster, Phil Whisner, and Doug Golden, along with juniors, Terry Woodburn, Gary Wessling and Jim Smith. Ruster, Warren's leading defensive player, made the honorary squad both of his years in varsity play.

Although it may look like an absolute mess this pile of equipment was a vital part of the Warrior's season, for without the proper equipment, a team is helpless.

Reserve Season Record Shows Strain

This year's varsity team turned in a record of 7-2-1. The most optimistic of dreamers would not have guessed this two years ago when as reserves they had a miserable 1-8 season.

Again this year a reserve squad turned in a slightly less than average season of 2 wins and 7 losses. Prospects such as Steve Dunn, Phil Duncan, Randy Miller, Bill Anthis and Ken Patterson made the future for the Warriors a brighter one. The team was under the coaching of Tom Mulry. Coach Mulry had to deal with such problems as injuries, inexperience and immaturity before he could create the team of tomorrow. Serving as a testing ground for young Warriors and proving field for new talent, the early autumn practices revealed many who would later achieve a better season.

The future of the football season depends, mainly on these boys gaining experience, knowledge, and maturity. They will no doubt grow together and fit into the mold of a fine team.

VARSITY CROSS COUNTRY TEAM—FIRST ROW: J. Kendall, J. Bonsett, J. Arvin, S. Burdine, A. Harwell. SECOND ROW: Coach McNulty, K. Wiker, D. Moran, E. Brewster, R. Meyer, B. Simpson.

Coach McNulty gives the starting signal for these Cross Country Warriors. Ahead of them lies the grueling two-mile man making course.

Without a doubt, this year's Cross Country team can look on a job well done affirmed by their superior 5th of 12 teams in the County, and 7th in the Sectionals.

The Varsity Cross Country team this year surprised many formidable opponents, by racking up a 2-2 record in 2-way meets. Practicing on their own during the summer months provided an effective and determined team that posed a challenge to all opponents. Combining this determined effort with physical development, Coach Carl McNulty had the ingredients for a winning team, and win they did.

Progressing to the final meets of the season, the varsity harriers had racked up a total of one 1st and two 2nds in three-way meets. Continuously giving their utmost effort for victory, the team finished 4th of 10 teams at the Ben Davis Invitational.

Coach McNulty's varsity squad came from out of the heat of September smelling like roses by placing 5th of 13 schools in the Howe Invitational and 6th of 12 in the keen Southport Invitational competition.

Mike Maddix, Bob Jaegers, Ken Slater, Blake Beldon, and Steve Smith peer anxiously over Coach Roach's shoulder at their handicaps.

Intra-Mural Golf Added To Warren Sports

Another one of the several firsts in the 1966-67 Warren Central athletic year was the introduction of an additional sport to the intramural program. In the fall 16 boys representing all three classes participated in the intramural golf program headed by varsity golf Coach Ron Roach. For five consecutive weeks, two afternoons of the golfer's time after school were devoted to an attempt to conquer both the Pleasant Run Golf Course and their opponents.

The program was conducted on both an individual and team basis. Junior Bill Gierke, was the individual champion, while he and his senior partner Ron Bayless captured the two-man team trophy. However, the most outstanding single performance went to Junior Dan DeBruicker who blazed through the course with a nine hole score of 34, two below par.

Handicaps were compiled following each round by Coach Ron Roach which enabled even the least talented duffer to compete on an equal basis with those more adept at this skillful game. The success of the program was brought about both by the enthusiasm of the participant and the diligence of Mr. Roach, paving the way for possible addition of other sports into the intramural program.

Intramural Golf Awards were captured by junior Bill Gierke, senior Ron Bayless, and junior Dan DeBruicker. Trophies were presented for 48 performances.

Of Warren

When a team finishes the season losing five more games than it has won and outscoring their opponents in total points, it just has to have been a very strange season and a story full of bad breaks. Such was the 1967-68 season for the Warren Warriors. The squad won eight and lost thirteen games during the entire season, but they scored 1,267 points compared to the opponents 1,245.

The team, led by veteran coach Carl McNulty started the season on a sour note by losing the first two games to Martinsville and Tech. Scecina, Lawrence Central and Decatur Central proved to be easy foes as the Warriors, who conquered all three, finally got on a winning spree.

Washington, Pike, Speedway, Beech Grove and Southport, a quintet which consists of some of the top teams in the state, all stopped the Warriors by handing the squad a one point loss.

In county tourney action, the Warriors first met the Lawrence Central Bears and handed them another five point defeat, 53-48. North Central then stopped the Warrior's county bid as they walloped the squad by a 50-43 score.

Carmel's Greyhounds were the next team to mar the Warren record as they beat the team 73-64. Even though the Warriors lost this game their defensive power was exhibited as they held Billy Shepard, one of the high scorers in the state to below his regular game point average.

Juniors Supplement Strength Of Seniors

Columbus, one of the top ten teams in the State, handed the Warriors their next defeat in a high-scoring clash which was lost to the Bulldogs, 90-74.

As the Warriors approached the end of their season and their battles with nearby foes, they defeated Arlington and Howe. In their last scheduled game of the season the squad lost a heart-breaker to the weak Franklin Central Flashes who defeated the Warriors by a two point margin, 58-56.

In a spectacular finish to the season the Warriors went into the sectional competition with plans of playing longer than the 32 minutes allotted in a regulation game. The Warriors got their wish. Their extra time was an overtime in which they lost to the powerful Southport Cardinals by a one-point margin, 45-44.

Marty Miggenburg led the Warriors throughout the entire year as he set a new school scoring record of 404 points during his years of varsity competition. With a squad filled with underclassmen, the 1968-69 team should do very well.

An all important, but sometimes neglected component, of an athletic event is efficient refereeing. Here, two officials confer during a time-out.

After a good first year all athletes and coaches fear the sports sophomore jinx. Second year reserve basketball coach Robert Heady with the help of his hoopsters took this jinx by the tail and rolled to an outstanding 17-3 record. The big wins of the season were over Washington's Continentals and the Southport Cardinals.

High-scoring Junior Jim Arvin, who moved up to the varsity team late in the season, tossed in 15 points against Southport.

Beech Grove's Hornets also found the little Warriors far more than could be handled as they fell 50-33. This was the second win in an eight game winning streak, which the Warriors put together at the end of the season. The Little Warriors had both the speed and height needed to face most any defense put up against them.

Starting most of the season were Jim Arvin, Dave Eggert, Bill Anthis, Rocky Robertson and George Alexander. Kevin Loux, Jeff Means, and Jim Minniear aso alternated between the varsity and reserve teams. This group should give varsity Coach Carl McNulty one of Warren's finest teams next year.

Surmounting the problems of being a first-year commander of Warren's wrestling team, Coach John Kennedy began just as soon as the football season finished.

The Warriors were conditioned into a wrestling body by hard practices after school in the "cracker-box," a room designed with little ventilation to lend itself to the wrestlers losing weight.

The Warriors were first tested by Decatur Central. Determination to win led the Warriors to a 44-10 victory. In their second outing, the Warriors took the measure of the Speedway Sparkplugs 30-14, which set the stage for an upset second-place victory in the Warren Invitational.

In December, a Christmas gift victory was won over Marshall 45-3 followed by a closely-matched meet with top-dog Columbus 23-21.

The wrestlers entered the Howe Invitational, walking away joyous victors as they captured first place. The final record stood at 6 wins, 3 losses, and 1 tie. Coach Kennedy's wrestlers are looking to a future bright with such wrestling stars as Roger Morgan, Roger Noel, Randy Miller, Chuck Pfeiffer, and Mike Goodman.

Frustration is evident on the face of Gary Wessling's opponent as Gary tries to pin his foe.

It's all history now, but for four wrestlers on Warren's squad a memory that they hold will never be forgotten. These four wrestlers: Roger Morgan, Steve Williams, Richard Warren, and Phil Whisner, by winning their weight classes in the sectionals led the wrestling squad to an amazing victory over 10 other schools to capture Warren's first wrestling sectional championship.

Roger Morgan, lending strength to the squad at the 95-pound bracket defeated Lappas of Arlington in the final match. Responding to the challenge which Morgan presented, the other wrestlers were determined to "give their all" for the sectional crown. Roger Noel at the 112 pound class captured second place as did 154 pound class Randy Miller which aided in the victory. Other top men for Warren were Jerry Harper, Mike Goodman, Barry Fentz, and Gary Wessling.

Mr. Foreman, Mr. Kennedy, and Phil Whisner have a sudden thrust of enthusiasm as a tense moment at wrestling sectionals appears.

Encounter Year-Long Agile Competition

Strength, agility, and poise—the three qualities inherent to successful gymnastics can be attained only through countless hours of experience. And although a 1-8 season record may not be too impressive, Coach Don Kassen hopes that many of his stalwarts have gathered the experience necessary to gain far better results next year.

Participating against the toughest competition throughout the state, Warren gymnasts were victorious in only one meet—against Anderson. Senior Marc Riggs placed well in several meets on the still rings and horizontal bar events. Junior Tom Wade was a constant threat in free exercise and tumbling. Along with Seniors Eric Reek and Roger Schermerhorn, these two comprised the basis of the team during this rebuilding year.

A strong sophomore contingency was one of the few bright spots for Coach Kassen. Randy Miller and Dan Duckworth scored often in dual meets on the parallel bars and trampoline respectively.

For the second successive year Warren Central hosted the state gymnastic meet in mid March.

Junior Tom Wade concentrates on his side horse routine in an intensive effort to score the high number of points necessary to win the event and aid the total team.

Warren Central gymnast Richard Tomme displays perfected form in a tumbling event during Warren's Invitation Meet.

Sophomore Randy Miller gives his full effort during his parallel bar routine. Randy's experience this year should make him a top competitor on next year's gymnastics team.

Cheeleaders Display Spark Of Courage

A dash of spirit, a spark of courage, a little imagination and we have the ingredients for Warren Central Cheerleaders. Arriving at school in the early hours of the morning these girls come to plaster the walls with spirit signs and to hand out spirit buttons.

A dash of spirit goes a long way, especially when there is enthusiasm and cooperation. Their remarkable demonstration of spirit at Smith-Walbridge Cheerleading Camp brought them home with the spirit stick.

A spark of courage is often a hard thing to keep going. Cheerleading tryouts early in March portray the first signs of courage in these girls. It takes courage to win a game as well as to lose one, and these girls must at all times be good sports.

Imagination is a quality which can be seen through all of the cheerleader's performances.

All in all, Warren can be very proud of the spirit, courage, and imagination these girls display.

Elected in the fall to lead enthusiasm for the reserve teams in football and basketball are Judy Pavey, Susie Smith, Markita Patrick, (back) Sally Wuensch.

Varsity cheerleaders combine constructive efforts to arouse team spirit for the Warren-Southport sectional game.

GAA Gives Girl Chance To Compete

Warren Central offers many extra-curricular sports for boys, but the Girls Athletic Association is the only active sports club for girls.

Athletic-minded girls at Warren get a chance to participate in sports in GAA. Among the activities offered are tennis, archery, softball, badminton, and gymnastics. Volleyball, basketball, and bowling seem to be favored activities.

GAA gives the girls a chance to participate in competition between teams as well as individual competition.

Because the girls can choose their own teams and then play the teams on a schedule, GAA basketball is set up on a varsity athletic basis. GAA is not only a chance for girls to participate in sports but they gain the necessary asset of sportsmanship.

During Girls Athletic Association basketball play, the hustle is supreme and the satisfaction is great. The defense tries to block the shot of their opponents.

Five teams began the year in contention for the Senior Division Championship in intramural basketball, but after the close of the regular season two of these were positioned well above the rest. Concluding regular season play in first place with a 7-1 record were the Pacers. Close on the heels of the Pacers, was Dave Moran's The Rash. Each had the stage for a real battle in the league playoff.

As expected, the Pacers breezed to an easy victory over Frank Dean's Funny Company, but the Rash just barely squeezed by Larry Roland's determined Uncertain Shots 34-31. In the final game the Rash squeaked by the Pacers 35-32, in an extremely hard-fought contest.

However, The Rash bit the dust at the hands of the tall and talented teachers by a decisive margin in the student faculty game.

Win Coveted Intramural Championships

In the Sophomore and Junior division of Intramural basketball Champions finished regular season play undefeated and went on to win their individual playoffs.

In the Junior Division the Creamers surged through their first eight games with an unblemished record. Led by the sharpshooting of Chris Andrews, Ernie Brewer, and Lenny Reed and the bounding power of tall and talented Dave Dixon they rolled over the Jars 52-33, and then captured the Junior Division Championship with a 45-40 victory over the Spartans.

The sophomore Division championship was captured by Will Hansen's Nine Mistakes. Will Hansen, along with John Warren and Dave Kaler led the Mistakes to a 50-32 triumph over the Wildcatz. Then in one of the lowest scoring battles in intramural history, the Mistakes edged by the Knights in a 19-16 squeaker.

Left: Ron McClain aims tall as senior intramural team "The Rash" battle in their final game to win "Number 1" status.

Sectional In Warren Central History

Tim Wertz, the man sprinting toward first base, seems to have added another RBI to his record as Marty Miggenburg crosses home plate to add another run for the Warriors.

The ability to steal bases is a valuable asset to any baseball player. Here John Ogden beats out the throw and slides into third base to get into scoring position.

Flying out to an infielder might seem to be an unglamorous play with which to terminate a baseball game, but when Warren Central's shortstop John Ogden camped under a high looper last June and grasped onto the horsehide, Warren Central athletic history had been made. For the first time in forty years of interscholastic competition Warren Central had captured a sectional championship. The 6-3 victory over Howe was just one chapter of a mysterious season for coach Don Foreman's diamondmen.

Early in the season it appeared as though Coach Foreman's squad was headed for a disastrous season. The initial three games yielded anything but success—three defeats dealt to them by Southport, Ben Davis and Carmel. The Warriors finally broke the hex by sweeping a double-header from Beech Grove, 5-0, 9-2. After two more defeats, one of them a heart-breaking ten inning 7-6 loss to Tech, the batsmen caught fire. Aided by some excellent pitching and more consistent run producing, the Warriors closed out the regular season with five consecutive victories over such perennial powers as Howe, North Central and Manual.

Then in the first state baseball tournament ever held in the Hoosier state Warren displayed its prowess by polishing off three successive sectional foes to capture the tournament held at Beech Grove.

Tech provided Warren with its first victim as they fell by a score of 1-0. Following a 4-0 triumph over Crispus Attucks, the Warriors gained a 9 inning victory over Howe, 6-3 in the sectional finale.

The following week, when tournament play was resumed the results were not quite so profitable. After crushing Greenfield 4-0, the Warriors were put out of the single elimination tournament by Knightstown 5-2. However, later the Warriors were able to console themselves by recalling that their season included an 8-0 slaughter of eventual state runner-up Arlington.

Balanced Squad Assisted By Foreman

Coach Don Foreman was the man whose advice led the Warriors to their outstanding season. Here he gives valuable assistance to the Warrior's pitcher, Ron Wainscott.

Paul Streets, another valuable pitcher on the Warren squad, strikes out another batter in the game against Tech. Paul's hurling led the team to a victory over the Titans.

Showing his deep concern over the game is Robert Heady. Mr. Heady assumed the reserve baseball coaching duties during the 1968 season.

Reserves Compile .500 Season Record

Under the direction of Coach Leo Hine, the reserve baseball team compiled a season record of four victories against four defeats. Sophomores comprised the majority of the starting positions which increases hopes for a successful varsity team next year.

After having been dealt their only severe loss in their debut against Southport by a 14-8 verdict, the Warriors came out on top in their next three outings against Chartrand, Ben Davis, and Carmel. Cathedral's Irish broke the winning streak as they slipped past the Warriors 5-3. The sub-varsity regained their touch as they captured a 3-2 decision over Tech, only to drop a 3-2 squeaker to Howe in the season finale.

Terry Toffolo, Jerry Hogan, and Paul Blankenship were dependable hurlers while Gary Wessling and Larry Gray provided the liveliest bats.

To Create Above Average 1967 Season

Any team engaged in keen competition has the objective to do their best and hope for an average season. Being coached by Dave Shaw, Jerry Stauffer, and Don Kassen, Warren's track team compiled a far better than average season.

Attaining their objective by winning four of seven dual meets, finishing first in two tri-meets and second in two others, was one way the team met their goal.

Pacing the team were Steve Burdine, Bruce Hickman, Steve Craig, Marc Riggs, and Steve Klein. Their combined effort was rewarded when they finished an impressive fourth of twelve teams in the county meet.

Individually rewarded for determination in practice that paid off in the county, Bruce Hickman finished second in high jump and fourth in long jump. Another determined Warrior was Steve Craig, who finished third place in the high hurdles and second in the low hurdles.

In the Warren Invitational, Warren was at their best. In eleven events Warren took five firsts.

Highlighting their other outstanding achievements of the season was the setting of a new school record in the mile relay. The mile relay team consisting of John Hancock, Alex Tomanovich, John Wray, and Greg Nolley, paced an overwhelming 3:31.6 seconds. School records were smashed as Steve Craig clocked an amazing 15.1 seconds in the high hurdles. The shuttle hurdle team of Craig, Hickman, Walker, and Wotring, also set a new record of 1:00.1 seconds. Steve Burdine, John Wray, Jim Bang, and Greg Nolley teamed up to surpass the old record and set the new pace of 8:31.3 seconds.

With these outstanding achievements, "average" could never be associated with the track team of 1967.

Three year letterman, Mike Dorsey, gives a superb example of what made him a top player during his competition at Warren Central.

Racquetmen for Warren's 1967 tennis team skillfully executed smashing drives to compile another average season for tennis here at Warren. The team composed mostly of seniors was primarily the same team that was used in 1966. Coach Robert Heady, who took over the coaching position from Don Wasson, guided the team through their season consisting of six wins and eight losses.

The season seemed to have gone in a wavering fashion with wins followed by losses and then more wins. The team finished their high school tennis careers by blanking Chartrand 7-0.

New to the IHSAA schedule this year was the state tennis tourney which was held in the Fall of 1967. Warren's participants were Dave Stroud and Art Hill. These two promising netmen managed to take runner-up position in sectional competition.

Larry Willen will take over the command of the 1968 tennis team. As for predictions for the coming season, the team will have to rely mainly on underclassmen since there are very few returning seniors.

Dan Chinn, one of the smashing varsity competitors, returns a volley in one of the many strenuous afternoon practice sessions.

Racquetmen Throughout 1967

Displaying perfect determination, physically and mentally, Ron Bayless prepares to sink this fateful putt.

With a team composed almost entirely of underclassmen, Coach Ronald Roach guided the 1967 golf team through an average season. Faced with many rugged and tough opponents, the team managed to pull through with a record consisting of three wins, five losses and one tie.

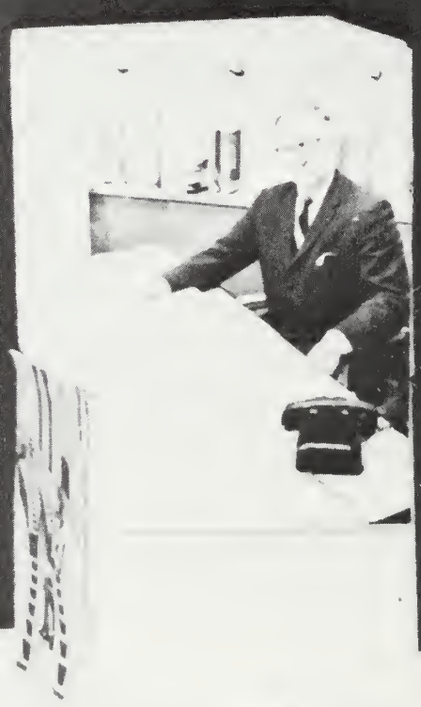
The season, which started off with a win against the Continentals of Washington, was marred by a losing streak consisting of five matches. Our underclass-filled squad rebounded to finish the season with two wins, a second place, and a tie with Pike. In the county competition the linksmen finished in eighth place in a tie with Pike, the team that they had previously tied during the regular season.

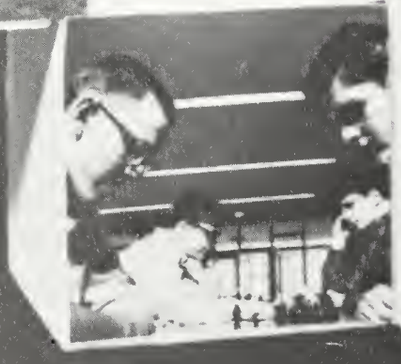
Coach Roach should have little difficulty in leading the 1968 golf team to what should be a very respectable record. Outstanding linksmen returning to compete this year will be Ron Bayless, Rick Spilker, Mike Robeson, Bill Gierke, Mark Stow and Jeff Means.

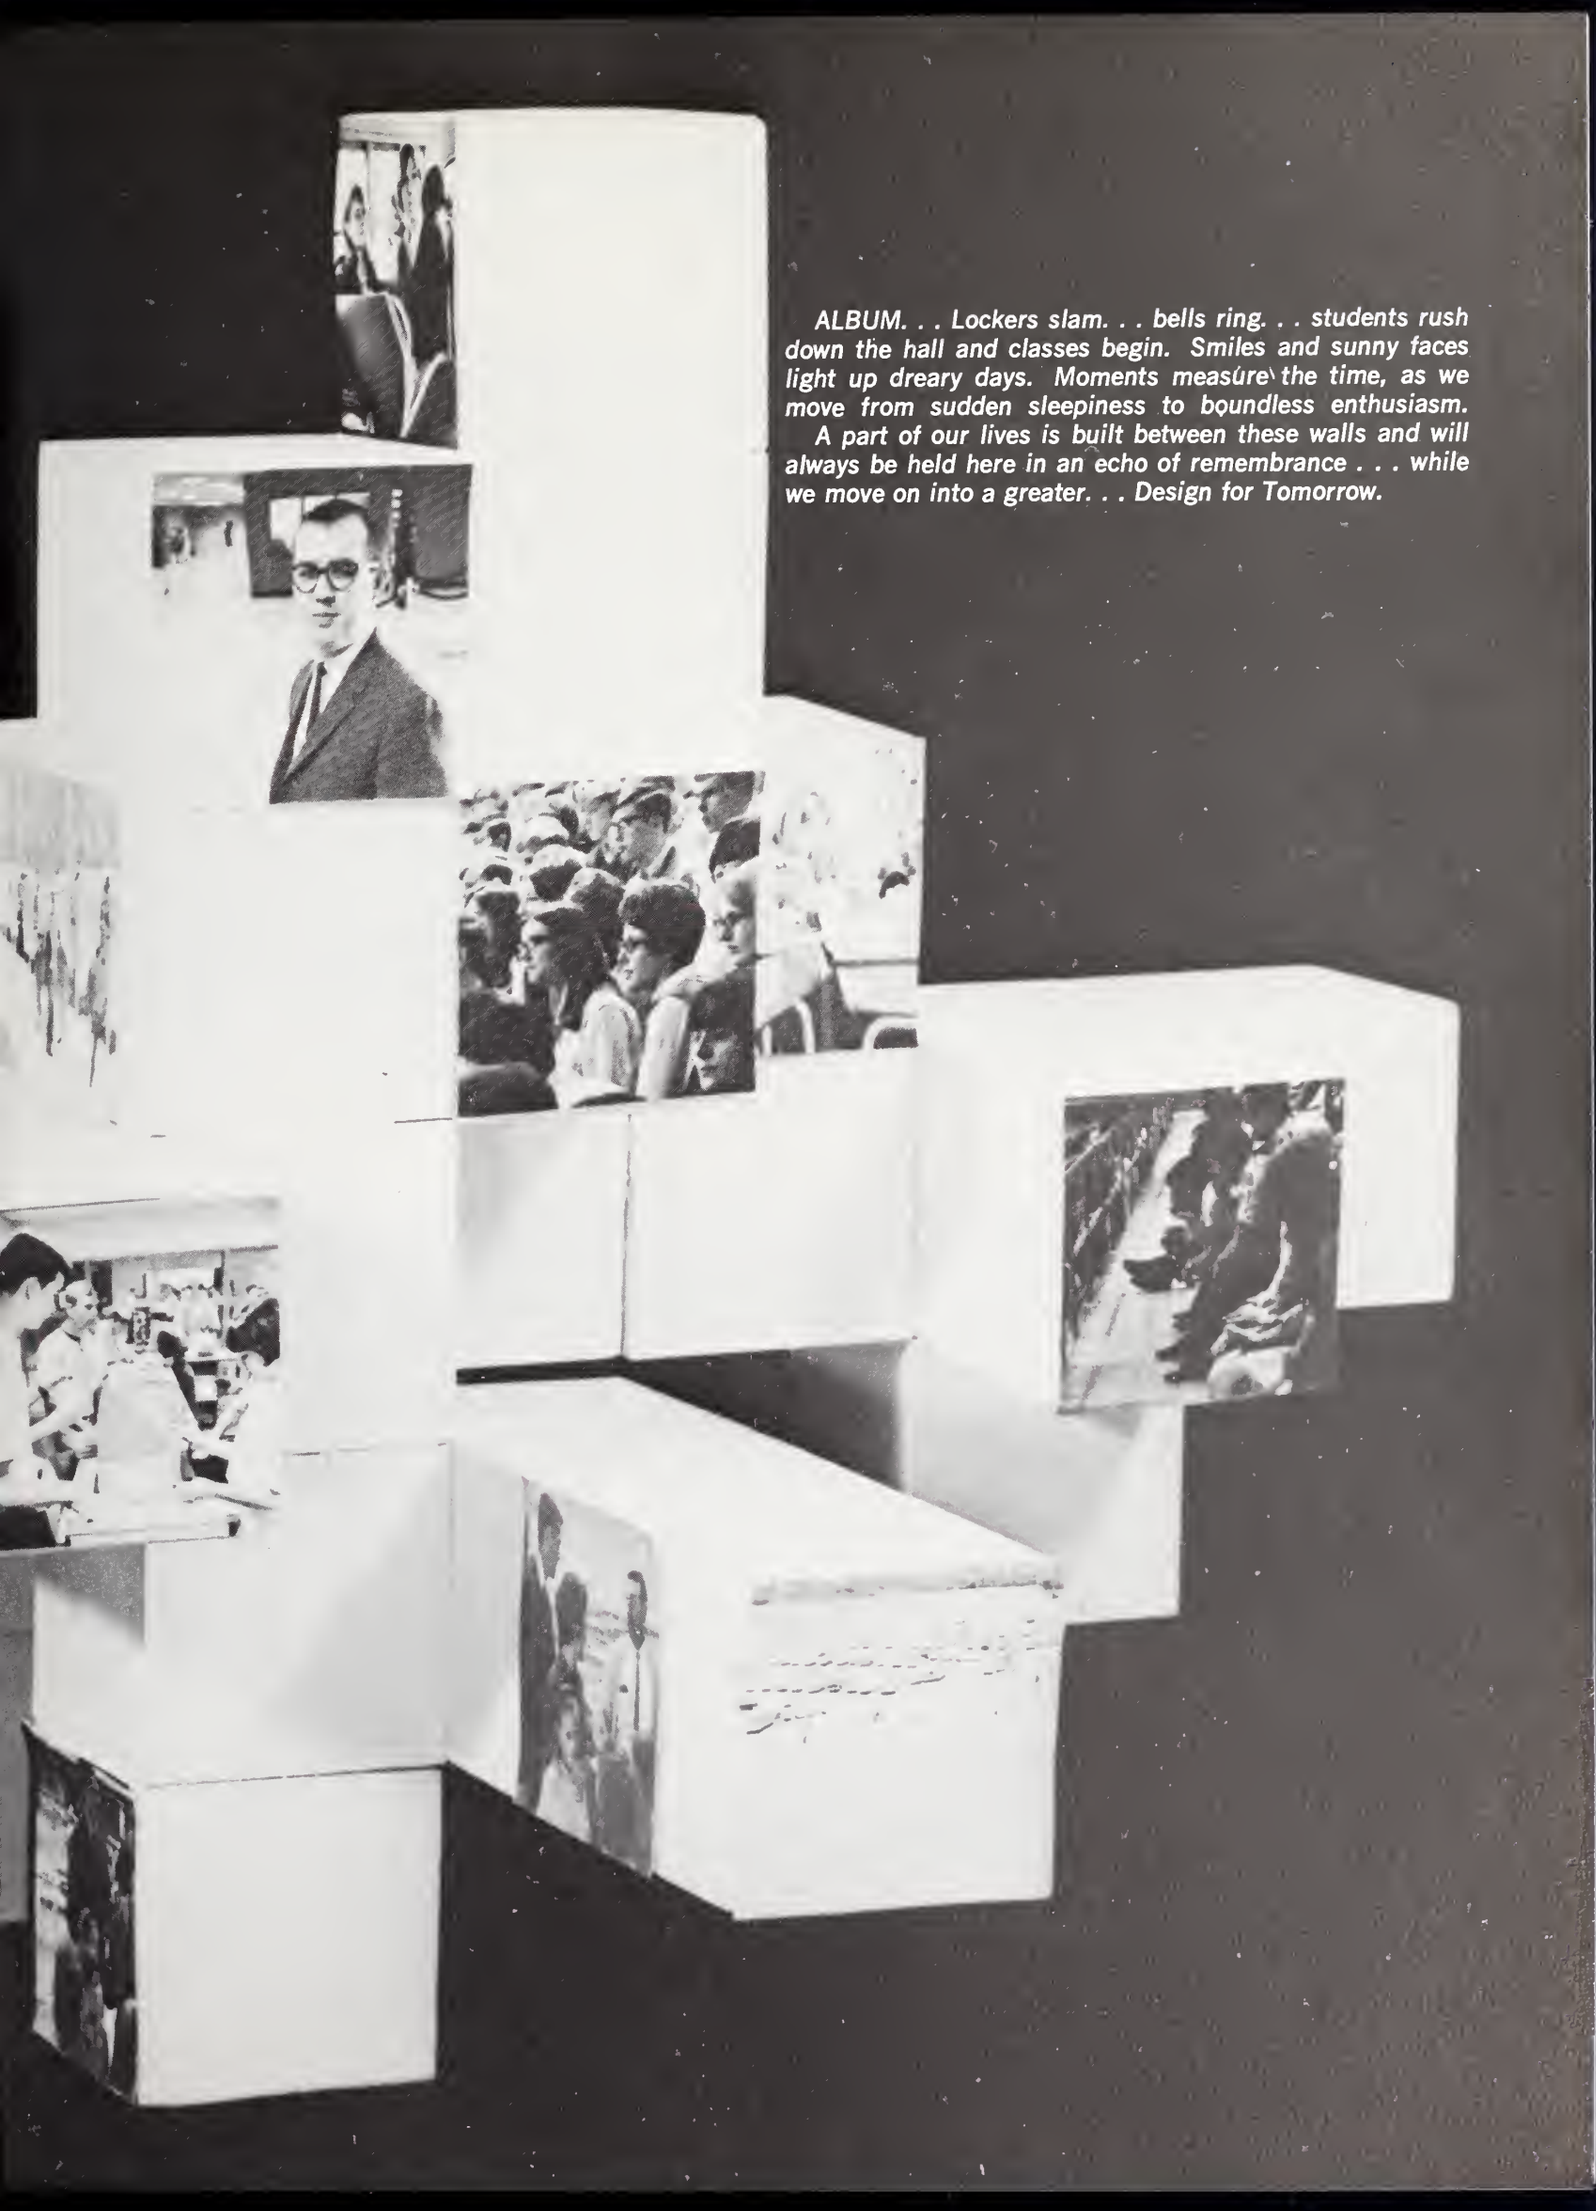
Bill Lowes, displaying winning form, controls tense muscles to put just the right amount of "oomph" behind the ball.

Anticipating that his practice will pay off, Jack Washburn looks intensely at the "little white ball."

ALBUM







ALBUM. . . Lockers slam. . . bells ring. . . students rush down the hall and classes begin. Smiles and sunny faces light up dreary days. Moments measure the time, as we move from sudden sleepiness to boundless enthusiasm.

To Reach Fulfillment Of Warren Goals

Although this is Mr. John O. Reed's third year at Warren Central High School, he has not been discouraged by the ever-present problems of Warren students. As the bell rings at 3:30, Mr. Reed can be seen still tackling some of the many problems besetting the average high school. Two of his foremost tasks this year were preparing Warren for next year's North Central Evaluation and contemplating ideas for the completion of Warren Central High School.

Mr. Obert Piety's familiar face can be seen as he fulfills his role as Assistant Principal of Warren Central. As sponsors of the Student Council, Mr. Piety and Mrs. Carol Montgomery must work closely with the president of the council in preparing each meeting. Although Mrs. Montgomery is not a newcomer to our staff, this is her first year as Dean of Girls with Mrs. Head continuing as Assistant Dean of Girls. Dean of Boys, Mr. Clifford Gates, has attained a new position as Assistant Principal with Mr. Piety.

Mr. John O. Reed, Principal of Warren Central High School, works diligently with faculty and staff members in preparing the school agenda for the year.

Mr. Obert Piety, Assistant Principal; Mrs. Joanna Head, Assistant Dean of Girls; Mrs. Carol Montgomery, Dean of Girls; and Mr. Clifford Gates, Assistant Principal and Dean of Boys, all work together in preparing to face the many problems of the coming day.

Administration Aims High

Working alongside Mr. Austin E. Walker, Superintendent of Schools, are the members of the Board of Education, C. Wayne Foster, president; Herbert S. Fall, vice-president; Donald D. Dick, treasurer; Warren H. Timmerman, secretary; and John T. Taylor.

Superintendent of the Metropolitan School Ditrict of Warren Township, Mr. Austin E. Walker, finds his days full of the upcoming problems of Warren Township. Striving for higher goals, Mr. Walker weighs each ponderous problem and confers with the Board of Education for further discussion.

During this academic year, not only was Mr. Walker fortunate enough to go on a tour of the U.S.S.R., where he was able to study their educational system in comparison to ours, but he also was appointed a member to the State Board of Commissioners of Education. This appointment was made by the Governor of Indiana.

Not many people realize the abundance of work that confronts the members of the Board of Education. An incessant problem of better education, equal opportunity, and furtherment of academic ratings plagues many members of the Board. Each prominent problem is taken into consideration by the board and dealt with according to its individual need.

Mr. Austin E. Walker, Superintendent of the Metropolitan School District of Warren Township, spends many hours considering the complex problems of Warren schools.

Senior Council Sponsor Of Successful

As the first of September rolled into sight, Seniors found themselves playing a new exciting role. After twelve years of climbing we had finally reached the summit. We lost little time in organizing our final year.

A general mood of enthusiasm helped determine that it would be one of epic accomplishment. Our contribution to the Tuberculosis Fund Drive, which exceeded that of every other Marion County school, was an example of our success.

Each Senior began the year with an individual goal. Some were only here to get that certain needed credit. The majority wanted to make it a year of memories and accomplishments. This same majority will become the future leaders of the world and represent our generation as they did our class with record achievements.

Highlights of hard work culminated for both the eleven character cast and the substantial stage crew November 9th and 10th, with the Senior Class Play. This year's production was "Ten Little Indians", by the famed British mystery writer, Agatha Christie.

Cast members found it refreshing to have the privilege of working for two nights, undisturbed by pounding hammers, yielded by a talkative stage crew, which had been an ever-present part of the background during rehearsal.

The plot involved ten people who had been summoned by an unknown, eccentric man to his island retreat for the weekend. They were informed their host had been detained, but would presently appear. One by one the guests were murdered or mysteriously disappeared until only two and the killer remained.

Kathy Farley, Bill Simpson, and Ken Conway starred as the secretary, playboy, and deranged judge, respectively. Hardwork, determination and a desire for perfection were the aims of all involved as they became the class of 68's contribution of stars to the future.

Our years at Warren didn't consist of only fun or pleasant experiences. Gradually, we were preparing for the future, when we, alone, would decide where, or how it would be spent. We constantly were confronted with new situations. Some we could cope with, others were baffling.

A few received awards for surmounting problems, working hard, and maintaining loyalty. Jani Pauley was honored by being selected DAR Good Citizen. Carol Morrow became Warren's Betty Crocker Future Homemaker.

Naturally not every Senior could win an award, but each deserved recognition for something; athletics, scholarship, speech, or simply completing twelve years of school.

Carol Morrow, selected as Warren's Betty Crocker Future Homemaker, and Jani Pauley, selected as DAR Good Citizen, compare insignias they won.

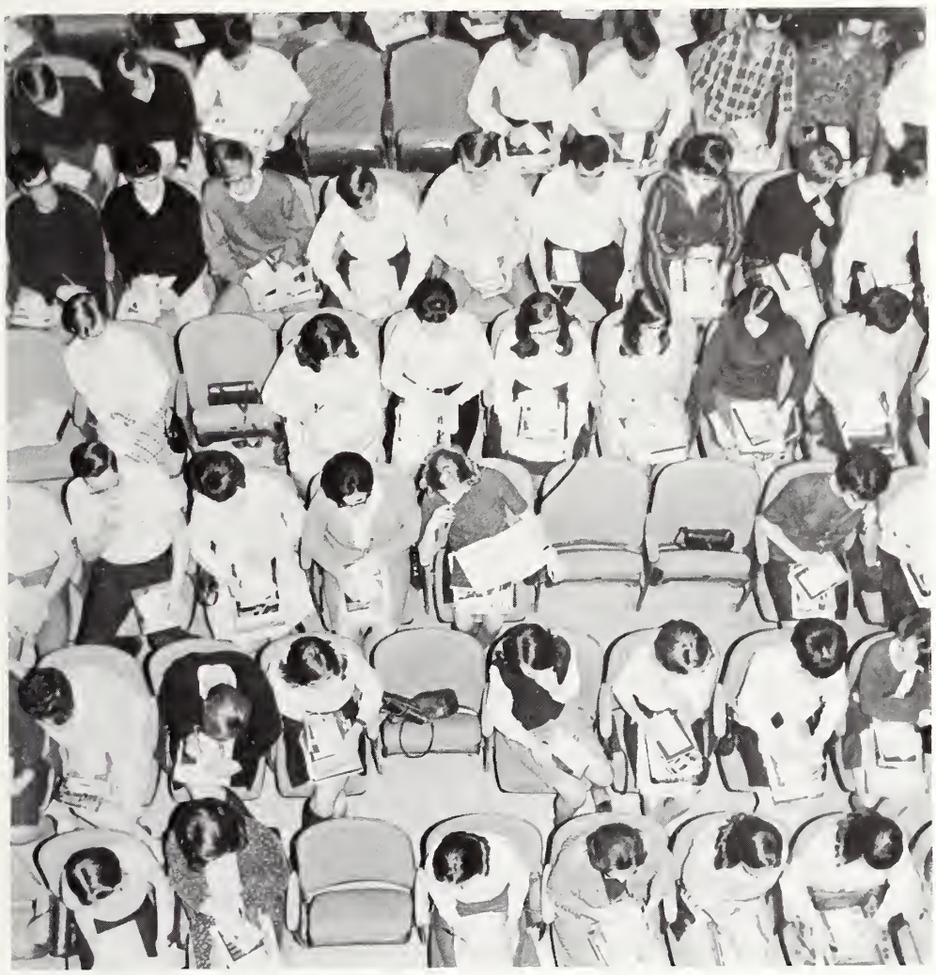
Causes Furor Among Graduating Class



Measuring for caps and gowns, receiving graduation announcements, participating in the senior bicycle race, and a future date, June 3rd, looming ahead, all set the mood for our last weeks as Seniors. It was a time of anticipation tempered with a touch of regret that twelve years could pass so quickly. As months faded into weeks, we relived the highlights of those previous years with ourselves, and our classmates. We remembered everything from crisp football and frenzied basketball games, Homecomings, musicals, and the Senior Play, to final exams, report card days, and those times we missed the bus.

The vision of a new freedom became the central train of thought, however, and an emotion slightly less than hysteria developed. Senior parties consumed our time, graduation cards started to arrive, a good job opportunity materialized, or a dormitory assignment appeared in the mail.

As we left Warren, after the last exam, our train of thoughts was directed on first the Senior Prom, then Commencement, the finale of twelve experiencing years.

Seniors congregated in the auditorium, during homeroom, to determine how many announcements to buy, and what style cards to order.

Homecoming, Heart Dance Liven October, February

Although there are many important elections at Warren Central, there is probably none more important as the election of queen and king candidates.

The students chosen to fill these roles obviously hold a special place in the minds of all Warren Centralites in order to encourage the amount of strenuous campaigning the week before the final voting.

This year for the first time the Senior class dominated the royalty festivities of all three Homecomings. A new method proposed by the Student Council and adopted by the Lettermen's Club designated that the girls be nominated by the entire student body, but that Senior girls be the only ones eligible for the candidacy.

After an active week of campaigning and poster-making for all the girls involved, Connie Beinburg was crowned Fall Sports Queen by her predecessor, Janet Rumph, 1966 Fall Sports Queen.

Queen Connie and her court reigned over the second half of the football game in which the Warriors won a decisive victory over the Lawrence Bears, 34 to 0. Connie also reigned over the after-game hop named in her honor as Warren's "Flower Girl."

Another highlight of Fall Homecoming was the competitive exhibition of floats representing various clubs throughout the school. The Warrenette float was designed especially for the Queen and her court.

The Junior Heart Fund Court is an exception to this new method of selection. Candidates were nominated by the student body and all classes were eligible for the election. Denise Stephens and Marty Miggenburg were named as Queen and King representatives for Warren Central.

Senior Connie Beinburg smiles radiantly as an expression of her elation after being crowned 1967 Fall Homecoming Queen.

Royalty Courts Selected By Warrenites

A kind of hush fell over the class of 1968 Warrenties as the Southside Knights of Columbus Hall was transformed into an evening of "Tropical Twilight."

The April 28th evening was surrounded with the music of the Greg Imboden Band. The mood was set with tropical palm trees, a sparkling beautiful fountain reflecting every color in the rainbow, and white stepping stones down the center aisle. Each girl received a miniature orchid from the table.

Highlighting the Junior Prom was the crowning of Connie Beinburg, Queen, Mike Warren, King. The Queen received a tiara and a dozen red roses. The King was presented the traditional laurel of olive leaves and a lei of orchids.

Posing with their royal predecessors, Janet Rumph and Dave Young, are Queen Connie Beinburg and King Mike Warren as they begin their reign.

Yule Dinner,

Squealing excitedly, Sharron Mills, 1968 Winter Homecoming Queen is crowned by Connie Beinburg, Fall Homecoming Queen as Sharron's escort, Steve Craig, watches with pride.

A week of vigorous campaigning preceded the Winter Homecoming Queen election. Friday night all anxieties were forgotten as "Hearts and Harmony" became the theme for Winter Homecoming Queen Sharon Mills as she welcomed returning alumnae for the winter sports season.

Chosen from among four other Senior girls, Sara Schricker, Becky Carter, Joyce Dolick and Debbie Seigfreid, she reigned over Homecoming festivities which included a victorious game with Arlington, and a following sockhop featuring the Marksmen.

Spring Homecoming at Warren completes the final round of sporting events for the year. For 1967, Jean Schlosser was chosen from a court of six girls, two from each class, to reign over the Warren Invitational Track Meet. Wind-blown hair, and uncompromising weather which are symbolic of this time of year, require a special kind of girl for a queen and court. Jean and the girls in her court typified this special girl for Warren Central students. The Publications staff sponsored the Spring Shuffle which followed the meet and added a finishing touch to the day.

Annual Athletic Activities Honor Nobility

Festivities and merrymaking of Elizabethan England set the mood of the third annual Tudor Dinner. Each Junior and Senior English class nominated a King and Queen candidate. Warrenites then narrowed the field and elected Marty Miggenburg as King, and Sally Wuensch as Queen.

After the beginning procession, led by carolers into the dining hall, the royal couple was crowned. From their thrones, they reigned over the remaining festivities. Kathy Farley and Bill Simpson helped turn the calendar back to the days of Shakespeare with a cutting from the "Taming of the Shrew."

The Junior class was responsible for arranging the Turnabout, one of the most unusual and popular dances of the year. Escorted by Warren females, males sported interesting homemade corsages. From the all-boy court, King Tuobanrut was selected to reign over the dance.

King Marty Miggenburg and Queen Sally Wuensch toast each other at the Tudor Dinner.

Junior Class Plans Action-Filled Year

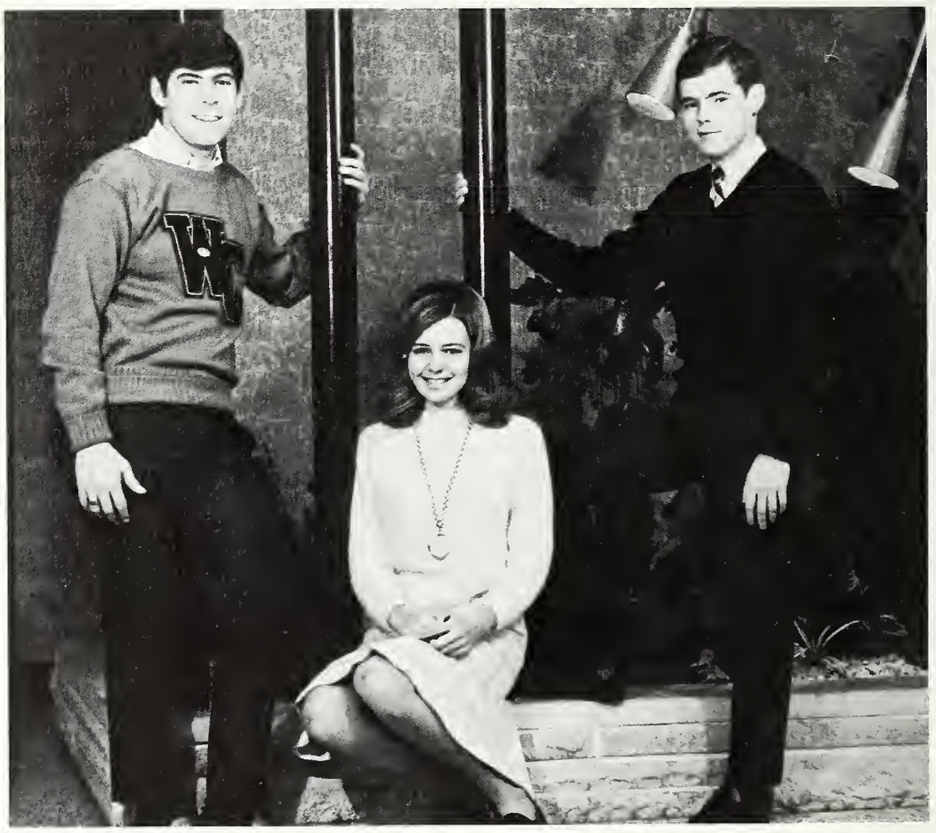
The Junior year, to all high school students, is one of great importance. Many decisions must be made which help to provide the maturity needed in becoming Seniors.

The election of class officers was the first major decision to be made. Representing the Junior class, the officers worked with the council planning activities for the year.

Class ring selection came next and each Junior was faced with the problem of choosing what color and style their own ring would be. Orders were taken and in December, the multicolored "Traditional" and "Dome" rings arrived.

Plans were made for the traditional March, Turn-about Dance. Highlighting the event was the crowning of a king.

Planning for the prom continued and after much deliberation, it was decided that the new Sherwood Country Club would host the 1968 Junior Prom, April 19.



Class officers Jerry Hogan, vice-president; Sally Wuensch, secretary-treasurer; and Mike McDaniel, president, head the Junior activities.

The Junior Council, whose responsibility it is to make decisions for the class, is the heart of the junior class. One boy and one girl are elected from each junior homeroom and this group becomes the Junior Council.

It is each one's duty to, not only represent each particular homeroom, but the entire junior class as well. This constitutes a more democratic policy throughout the entire school.

Each year as a new Junior Council assumes its responsibilities, it is faced with the problem of selecting the type of ring which will please the majority of ring buyers.

This year, for the second year, the Junior Council selected the "Dome" style as well as the "traditional" style.

After the Council chose a style for both rings, the rings were displayed in the Library and English display case windows the week prior to ordering.

In October, it was an individual matter for the details of each ring—size, color, gold, dome, traditional.

In December, Juniors received their rings, (secretly believing their's to be the most handsome) "oohing" and "aahing" for days.

Months of waiting came to an end, as the juniors paid for their class rings.

Sophomores Find Homework Transition

As the freshmen leave Creston or Woodview they reach a destination filled with hard work, long hours, but much reward. Being a sophomore is difficult. They are not only the youngest in the school, but are faced with finding room numbers and familiarizing themselves with teachers. For some, mingling with the upperclassmen is hard. But one of the greatest problems to encounter is that of finding enough time for all the various projects and notebooks required.

The work must be completed, however, to get required courses for graduation "out of the way."

The class of 1970 will see changes and progress in their next two years at Warren Central. This year's sophomores will be the first class to graduate after completion of the new addition to the building. Secretly envied by all upperclassmen, they will also be the first to use the swimming pool, and communication center, and perhaps the first to hang pictures in the art gallery. These additions are, perhaps the most talked about and the sophomores are indeed lucky to be the class of 1970.

Of Friends

Being a sophomore is a difficult task, as all Warren Central sophomore students realized after their first day at Warren. Not only is there also the fact that being a sophomore brings new problems . . . What should I wear to the next football game? Who is that cool Senior who eats during my lunch period? How should I fix my hair for underclass pictures?

This year sophomores, juniors, and seniors were photographed so identification cards could be distributed to all three grades. The finished picture packets and I.D. cards came back from Indiana School Pictures and decisions had to be made whether to buy them or not.

The transition from school to school and class to class are not apparent to the junior and senior students who have already faced this dilemma, but to the oncoming sophomores quite a challenge is presented.

Showing his patience is a staff photographer for the Indiana School Pictures, Inc., who once again this year snapped nearly 1,600 Warrenites' pictures.

Of Designs For Tomorrow's Learning

ADVERTISING

From buying bubble gum to buying automobiles, Warren Central students live in a world built around advertisement. Throughout each day we are bombarded with. . . ADVERTISING. . . of all types.

As with all phases of Warren life, advertising also becomes an influence and leaves an impression that we will take with us as we move into our place in a. . . Design for Tomorrow.

Anything under the sun can be found at the Bargain Barn at bargain prices.

Total Design Of Wigwam Is Finished

From the Wigwam skit to the last deadline, Wigwammers moved at a tremendous pace. There was always more to do and never enough time to do it. Although capturing the events of the 1967-68 school year was not an easy task, to staffers it was highly rewarding.

It takes a special kind of person to be a Wigwammer. This year one-third of the staff had no previous experience, however, they were always enthusiastic to do things over for the third time.

Theme was perhaps the most difficult phase of the 1968 WIGWAM. After much consideration "Design for Tomorrow" was chosen. For this was the story behind 1968, when everything was moving toward a climax; and all phases of Warren life were moving rapidly toward change.

However, all of the credit cannot be given to the staff members alone. A special thanks must go to our Advisor, Mrs. Nell Hawthorne, and to Mr. Fish, for his artistic contributions. Advice was always welcomed from our yearbook representative Mr. Dick Kennard. Picture deadlines were always met punctually through the services of the Indiana School Pictures, Max Galloway, and The Indianapolis Star.

As anticipation mounted for that first view of the 1968 Wigwam, plans for the 1969 book were already getting underway.
